Says Churchill, to Shaw.
One Short Story.
Other Prohibition News.
The Next War, Where?

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

WINSTON CHURCHILL does not like things said by Bernard Shaw and Lady Astor on their return from Russia, and skirts close to the edge of the British libel law, telling what he thinks of them.

He describes Shaw, "Preaching ownership of all forms of wealth by the state," and adds, "but no one squealed more shrilly than he when Lloyd George introduced the super-taxes on incomes."

CHURCHILL CRITICIZES Lady Astor for her friendly comment on Russian methods, lugging in the fact that Lord Astor, the week before his wife went to Rusia, "had been awarded $15,000,000 returned from taxation by the American courts."

An interesting word-war may follow Churchill's attack on the two, well able to talk back.

Lady Astor might decline the discussion, on the ground that Churchill is unworthy of her verbal steel, being only half, while she is 100 per cent American.

With England in her present condition, Britishers might be grateful for new ideas, brought from Russia, or anywhere.

ONE SHORT POLICE STORY in New York lights up our civilization, its politics, finance, prohibition, all included.

A young State Senator from New Jersey, visiting a lady in New York, spent much of the night "helping her to drink four or five bottles of gin." That seems a good many, but the police say it was done.

Then the lady shot the Senator, and he probably will die. Neither cares to talk about it.

The Governer of New Jersey wants to know how the woman got various checks drawn to her order by the state of New Jersey, and who put her, a resident of New York City, on a New Jersey payroll.

FOLLOWING THE horrible killing of two young girls and two high school boys in Michigan, the Governor of that state says things that interest all sincere prohibitionists, or ought to.

He says the three murderers killed the four young people, robbing and burning their bodies, to get more money to buy "white mule," a bootleg poison that made murderers of them.

GOV. BRUCKER learns that there are, just outside of Michigan cities, "thousands of resorts where poisonous moonshine and liquors made from raw alcohol are sold, almost openly."

These resorts, the Governor of Michigan says, "pander to our young folks and act as rendezvous. They are responsible for our crowded prisons and the crime wave that is a challenge to the state."

THE GOVERNOR might have added that the four boys and girls had been trailed by their killers from a roadside inn to the secluded spot where they parked their car.

The Governor's demand that bootleg whisky and the resorts that sell it be wiped out is, and will remain futile while prohibition lasts.

The most earnest prohibitionist, convinced that his theory ought to succeed, whether it does or not, must admit that it has not kept its promise to "empty the prisons."

THE GOVERNMENT seized in a fashionable quarter of New York City, an enormous still producing nearly 30,000 gallons of alcohol daily, and actually yielding profits between eight and ten million dollars a year. Quite an industry.

The law allows confiscation of real estate, thus employed. The government takes steps to confiscate and the New York Trust Company asks "what about my mortgage for eighteen hundred thousand dollars, placed on the property, in good faith, before you seized it."

NEW YORKERS are moaning about their real estate, hit by hard times, taxed destructively by a city government that spends in a year one hundred millions more than the federal government spent, before the war.

If now the government can seize property used by bootleggers, even though its owner knows nothing of the law violation, the real estate cup of sorrow will be running over.

NUMEROUS PROPHETS, telling you when and where the next war will start, and "wipe out white civilization," overlook Asia.

The Chinese have aroused Japan's anger to a dangerous extent, by killing Koreans, that are Japanese subjects, and by the arrogant attitude of Chinese toward Japanese, a new development of China's nationalism.

China has many things that would be useful to Japan, and that next war might come on the other side of the Pacific. But do not let the prospect persuade you to "long" on wheat, cotton or other supplies.

IT IS HARD for the peace dove to find a safe roost anywhere. Ireland reports serious religious quarreling between the Protestant Orangemen of the North and Catholics of the Irish Free State.

Rails are torn up, a locomotive derailed to keep Catholics from attending a gathering of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, at Armagh. The Orangemen say the Hibernians had broken up their celebration, and they wanted revenge.

THERE ARE SO FEW people on this earth that all of them could stand, at one time, on

COYNE SLATE CANDIDATE DROPS OUT

D. Lee Pryde Will Quit Controller Race; Babcock May Abandon Contest

D. Lee Pryde today said he would withdraw his name as candidate for County Controller and quit the three-cornered race, leaving the incumbent, Robert G. Woodside, and Maj. W. S. Rees, independent, to fight it out.

It was the first important withdrawal of the day—the last opportunity to decide whether candidates' names shall appear on the September ballot. Pryde from East Pittsburgh, is on Coyne's headquarters staff. It was the first sign of a break up of Coyne's ticket.

Coincidently, Senator James J. Coyne, candidate for County Commissioner, reiterated his own position—that there was utterly no possibility of his withdrawal. He added a sly jab that might be construed as directed at Commissioner E. V. Babcock.

SERIOUS BUSINESS

Coyne said:

"I think that running for this office is serious business, and anyone who doesn't intend to keep in the fight should keep his name off the list."

Otherwise it became increasingly likely that the Republican party would have three factional tickets in the field.

One new possibility emerged from the welter of rumors and counter-rumors today — that State Senator William D. Mansfield and present County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong will be teamed as the "organization's" candidates for the majority posts on the Board of Commissioners.

BABCOCK MAY QUIT

STORMS IN PATH OF LINDYS

Tokio, Aug. 17.—(AP.)—Thunderstorms, thick fog and wind arose from the storm cradle along the Kurkle Island chain tonight as Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh waited at Petropavlovsk, Siberia, for a propitious hour to start the 897-mile dash that will bring them into Japan at Nemuro.

Weather reports said there were thunderstorms over Paramushir, the northernmost island of the group, and thick fog over Iturup Island, the most southerly one of the chain, and a northwest by west wind was blowing over the whole group.

Reports from Petropavlovsk, on the Kamchatka Peninsula, relayed by the steamship Kokusai Maru and the United States Naval Radio Station on St. Paul Island, indicated the Lindberghs still were watching weather reports. Wireless stations said the flying couple had planned to start for Nemuro early tomorrow.

Amy Johnson Fears Tokio's Fast Taxis

TOKIO, Aug. 17.—(AP.)—Amy Johnson, the British aviatrix, who has delayed her return to London so that she could meet Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh when they arrive this week, has refused to ride in Tokio taxis. She said:

"The taxi drivers here are too fast. They take too many chances. Why, they are even worse than those darting taxis of Paris."

Gronau Again Flies Over Greenland Ice

LONDON, Aug. 17.—(INS.)—Capt. Wolfgang Von Gronau has achieved his second successful flight over the dangerous inland glacier of Greenland, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch received here today.

WASTE CHARGED TO ARMSTONG

Calling County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong "Joe the Waster" and declaring the present county administration has been one of "extravagancy and incompetency," former State Senator C. M. Barr today sounded the opening gun of the "Independent" Republican campaign.

DENIES CLAIMS

He dissected the first broadcasts of the Armstrong campaign publicity corps and charged that improvements for which Armstrong is being given credit were not initiated or completed by him.

He said:

"The taxpayer will be swamped with descriptive terms of Arm-

Dempsey Files Suit, Hopes Estelle Won't Fight

Charging mental cruelty, the action was filed at 10 a. m. today by his attorney, Robert Burns.

Burns said he was still awaiting word from Los Angeles as to whether Miss Taylor had accepted the latest offer made by Dempsey as to a property settlement. He said:

"We are hopeful there will be no contest and that everything will be smoothed out shortly."

Two Daughters of Marie And Royal Mates in Tiff

Alexander and Queen Parted; George After Divorce

ZAGREB, Jugoslavia, Aug. 17.—(AP.)—Folks were wondering today whether King Alexander, of Jugoslavia, and Queen Marie, his Rumanian wife, were estranged.

Their curiosity was stimulated by the fact that the King and Queen spent apart the tenth anniversary of his ascension to the throne. He is shooting on his summer estate at Pijesak and she is reviewing a naval parade at Constanza.

King Alexander was one of the few intimates of the Rumanian royal family not to attend the wedding of Princess Ileana to Archduke Anton last month. Queen Marie was reported at that time to have been displeased by his absence but no official reason ever was given.

The Queen has been living with Dowager Queen Marie, her mother in the latter's castle at Baltchik since that time while her husband has been occupying himself here with affairs of state.

King Alexander became King of Serbs, Croats and Slovenes on August 16, 1921, after the death of his father, King Peter. He married Marie, second daughter of the late King Ferdinand of Rumania, on June 8, 1922. Three sons, Peter, Tomislav and Andrja, were born to them.

Ex King George Reported Seeking Divorce

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Aug. 17.—(INS.)—The domestic affairs of members of the Rumanian royal family were again under discussion here today when it was reported that two former Rumanian princesses were at odds with their husbands. Not only has Queen Maria of Jugoslavia quarreled with her husband, King Alexander, but it is reported that former King George of Greece is in England preparing to divorce Marie's sister, former Queen Elizabeth.

It will be the first peacetime landing of a German dirigible on English soil.

Dr. Penrose Leaves $464,136 in Cash

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 17.—(AP.)—A partial inventory of the estate of Dr. Richard A. F. Penrose, Jr., noted geologist, and brother of the late United States Senator Boies Penrose, was filed today in the register of wills office here, listing cash of $464,136. Dr. Penrose's total estate is expected to reach more than $1,000,000, the bulk of which is to be divided under terms of his will between the American Philosophical Society and the Geological Society of America.

Edison Improving; Now Out of Danger

WEST ORANGE, N. J., Aug. 17.—(INS.)—Thomas A. Edison is steadily regaining his strength and there is no further cause for anxiety about him, it was said here today by his attending physicians, Dr. Hubert S. Howe and Dr. Frederick Allen.

Edison went for an automobile ride yesterday afternoon, spent last evening in the company of his family and then retired and had a good night's sleep, the physicians said.

J. & L. OPPOSES RAIL BOOST

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—(INS.)—Any increase in the rail rates on iron ore would be "rank discrimination" in favor of the United States Steel Corporation, F. A. Ogden, general freight agent of the Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation, of Pittsburgh, told the Interstate Commerce Commission today.

He said the independent iron and steel corporations are opposed to the proposal of the railroads to increase freight rates 15 per cent.

BLOW TO PITTSBURGH

The supremacy of the Pittsburgh district in the steel industry would be threatened by the proposed increase in rates on ore, Ogden intimated in his testimony. Mills at Pittsburgh would be burdened with increased cost, while plants at Chicago, Cleveland and other lake ports, including those of United States Steel Corporation and Bethlehem, would not be

FAILS IN TRY TO SMOTHER WEEK-OLD INFANT

Neighbors Declare Man Had Worried Over New Burden; Out of Work for Months

Matthew Spelich, 36, unemployed laborer, shot and killed his wife, Frances, 30, as she lay beside her week-old babe, made an ineffectual attempt to smother the infant, then ended his own life today in a bedroom of their home, 911 Park street, McKeesport.

Police found the babe, born a week ago today, with bedclothing pulled over its face and wrapped around its neck, indicating, they said, that the father had tried to snuff out the lives of both mother and child. The baby, at first thought dead, was revived by police and removed to McKeesport Hospital.

FIND PAIR DEAD

Hearing the shots, Matthew, Jr., 11, and Anna Roper, 15, a maid, rushed to the second floor bedroom where the mother had been in bed since the birth of her child.

They found the mother dead with a bullet wound in her head. The husband and father, a bullet in his head, lay on the floor, the revolver near his right hand.

A note, scarcely legible, left by Spelich, accused his wife of giving money to her relatives. They had quarrelled for the last year about relatives, police said they learned.

Spelich may have been crazed by the thought of an increasing family in face of his inability to provide, they added.

Five other children, Eleanor, 10; Daniel, 8; Genevieve, 6; Leonard, 3; Florence, 2, were playing near the Spelich home at the time.

SAYS MAN DRANK

Mrs. Anna Puskarich, of 706 Shaw avenue, McKeesport, sister of the dead woman, told police Spelich drank, but she did not know whether he was under the influence of liquor today. Husband and wife had quarrelled frequently, she said.

A laborer for the American Sheet and Tin Plate Company, Spelich had not worked for months, neighbors said.

4 Cambria Slayers Die In Chair

BELLEFONTE, Pa., Aug. 17.—(AP.)—Four men went to the death in the electric chair at Rockview Penitentiary here today for their parts in the killing of Louis Hoffman, of near Johnstown, in a quarrel over the whereabouts of a cache of liquor of which Hoffman knew nothing.

The last of the quartet to go, Carl Crow, requested permission to make a final statement and reasserted his innocence. He said:

"I am as innocent as a little babe. God bless my little boy."

Only 28 minutes were req to send the four men to deaths. The switches were thr by Robert Elliott, New York cutioner.

The execution of Crow, Fr Cantilla, Frank Powell and J seph Parsi was the first March 7, 1927, in which four sons were executed on the day. On the prior occasion, four Olney bank bandits were to death.

The Governor's friends, however, pointed out that conditions in 1932 and 1928 are altogether different. While New York's 45 electoral votes are generally regarded as essential to the success of a presidential candidate, some of Roosevelt's friends believe that the reaction against the Hoover administration throughout the country is so strong that it is quite possible that he could win the election without his own state. Woodrow Wilson won without New York in 1916.

So far as the country outside of New York is concerned there is no doubt that Roosevelt has strengthened himself immeasurably. For down in the South and west of the Mississippi the popular conception of Tammany is a picture of "Boss" Tweed.

This blow for clean government is expected to be a clincher for those Democratic leaders who were reluctant to clamber aboard the Roosevelt bandwagon when it appeared that the Governor was attempting to dodge the issue for fear of what Tammany might do to him.

Capital Ponders Omen of New Cat In White House

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—(Universal)—A big tom cat took up its residence in the White House and there is a big dispute as to whether or not it is an omen of good luck.

William Pannell, colored White House majordomo, is not so sure about it. He said:

"When a black cat comes to our home that is the best luck in the world. But take this cat. It ain't rightly any color, black and yellow and all spotted. It may be good luck or it may be bad, according to the spots."

Robbers Slug Barbecue Woman

Three men entered the barbecue operated in Washington boulevard by Michael De Rosa, Twelfth Ward Republican leader, early today, slugged the night manager, Mrs. Mollie Perry, 35, of 6495 Frankstown avenue, and escaped with $5.55, Mrs. Perry told police.

She did not report the robbery to city police but told her story to an ice cream vendor who repeated it to state police and they summoned officers from the East End Station.

The investigating officers said Mrs. Perry showed marks of having been beaten on the head and chest.

$1,400 Bandit Loot Found in Vacant Lot

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 17.—(AP)—What Charles McGowan, 16-year-old grocer's delivery boy, thought to be a bag of spinach in a vacant lot proved today to be a sack of money—$1,400 in bills.

Police said it was part of the $1,700 taken by three holdup men in a pistol battle outside the West Garrett market in Upper Darby Saturday night and had evidently been thrown there by the robbers who expected to recover it later.

WIDOW ACCUSES 2 IN DEATH

Charged with murder despite their release by the Coroner, John and Andrew Grusek, brothers, were committed to jail today in connection with the death of Harry E. Bricker, 35, of Kast road, Ingomar.

The two were arrested by Constable William English after they had been exonerated by Coroner W. J. McGregor. Information was made before Alderman George J. Anderson by William Medley, brother of Mrs. Bricker.

Attorney Charles B. Prichard said he was prepared to go into court with habeas corpus proceedings, if necessary, to obtain release of the accused brothers.

According to Dr. J. W. McMeans, coroner's physician, who performed a post-mortem autopsy, Bricker died of strangulation while under the influence of alcohol.

Mrs. Bricker said the two men had brought her husband home in their auto and had not only beaten him while in the machine but upon arriving at the Bricker home threw him out and continued their attack.

CUBA PEACEFUL WITH REVOLT FAST DYING

Outbreaks Halted as Leaders Are Imprisoned in Fort While Thousands Look On

International News Service

HAVANA, Aug. 17.—Cuba's revolt appeared to be dying a natural death today as the government reported all quiet throughout the republic.

Sporadic outbreaks occurring after capture of the leaders of the insurrection appeared to have ceased. The government expressed the conviction all revolutionaries would have laid down their arms within a week at the outside.

The spectacle of Gen. Mario Menocal and Col. Mendieta, authors of the revolt, arriving bedraggled, muddy and ragged in Havana after their capture in the province of Pinar Del Rio had a profound effect upon the thousands of spectators who gathered to witness their incarceration in Cabanas fortress.

Even discussions of the revolt seemed too stale a topic to the man in the street today. The government abolished its general staff information bureau, declaring the uprising had been quelled and that further communiques were unnecessary.

J. & L. OPPOSES RAIL BOOST

affected. These companies, he declared, are not protesting the increase.

With no change in the boat rate but with the upper rail haul and lower rail haul both increased, the interior furnaces, such as the Jones & Laughlin, will pay an increase on two rail rates and the lake front furnaces only on one.

Ogden said the proposed increase, added to the present $1.23 rate on ore from Lake Erie ports to Pittsburgh, means an increase of almost 20 cents per ton on iron ore. Since it takes about two tons of ore to produce one of metal the requested increase would add 40 cents per ton to the steel manufacturing costs of the Jones and Laughlin furnace at Pittsburgh, he said. This is an increase over and above what would fall on the lake front furnaces.

LACK OF BUSINESS

The condition confronting the railroads is not a matter of freight rates but the lack of business, which is the same as that confronting all industries from the farmer up, Ogden asserted. He said:

"To further penalize the industries for the benefit of the railroads is to divert more and more business, how little it may be, to truck and other forms of transportation and to greatly hamper all the industries.

"If the industries are not helped, there will be very little business for the railroads, or any other means of transportation and advanced freight rates will be of no avail. It would in the end be better for all to reduce freight rates as has been done in the past in times of depression."

J. V. McMahon, traffic manager of the Youngstown Chamber of Commerce, said his organization was opposed to any rate increase, "particularly because industries in the Youngstown district are unable in many instances to meet the competition of other districts, especially those located on the Ohio River system and the Great Lakes."

China Seeks U. S. Wheat For Flood Victims

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—(AP.)—The Chinese government laid before the American government today an informal inquiry to ascertain the quantity of wheat available on credit terms for flood-stricken areas in China.

The inquiry was cabled to the State Department by the American consulate at Nanking. The communication did not specify the amount of wheat which would be required nor did it offer a concrete proposition for purchase.

Officials described the Chinese suggestion as having been "on a business basis," contemplating sale of wheat stocks on credit for flood sufferers in the Yangtse River valley.

State Department officials said the question of distribution which has stood in the way of furnishing wheat to famine stricken areas in the Chinese interior in the past, would not exist in the present instance since the flood-stricken areas were on the Yangtse River, thus facilitating transportation.

Revelation of Coolidge Plan Worries Hoover

HOOVER CAMP, RAPIDAN, Va., Aug. 17.—(Universal)—White House aides were much disturbed today over the leak on President Hoover's conference with Charles D. Hilles, Republican national committeeman from New York, concerning the draft Coolidge movement.

While diplomatic denials were in order, it is known that the President has been fretting over persistent reports that an effort was being made to bring Calvin Coolidge back to the White House and sought first hand information from Hilles.

Since Hilles was the leader of the movement to drapt Coolidge in 1928, the present situation was a delicate subject and is understood to have come up in a general discussion of political and economic conditions in New York.

There was no indication as to Hilles' attitude nor whether the President was satisfied that the wing of the party led by the New Yorker was enthusiastic for his renomination and re-election.

LOUISE THADEN, WINGING WEST, DETERMINED TO WIN CUP

PLANE BEHAVES PERFECTLY TO TERRE HAUTE

By LOUISE THADEN
Winner of the 1929 National Air Derby for Women

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Aug. 17.—With my ship behaving perfectly, I landed here just 3 hours and 45 minutes after leaving Bettis Field. Here my sister, Mrs. W. C. Davis, Jr., of Dayton, is to be my passenger to Bartlesville, my next stop.

The well wishes of my Pittsburgh friends still rang in my ears over the steady drone of my motor as I winged my way over the first leg of the West Coast hop for the start of the "Powder Puff" derby. There was but one thought uppermost in my mind—to bring back that trophy.

STARTS FROM BETTIS

As I soared out from Bettis Airport yesterday and looked down on the vast surfaced area that is rapidly growing into Pittsburgh's and Allegheny County's municipal port, I let my thoughts run along a few weeks hence when that immense project will become a startling reality to the many thousands of aviation enthusiasts of my home community.

There is nothing I should like better than to bring my ship back to Pittsburgh's own port with the laurels of the National Air races attached. Saturday, coming into Pittsburgh from the East with my husband, I looked down on the field and pointing to the beautiful level runways, I nosed the ship in and asked:

"Shall we try it?"

He nodded his approval and I swung around for a better approach, stealing a landing on the hundreds of other pilots who daily fly over the port and gaze longingly at it as it slips silently along underneath. Let me tell you it was one of the greatest thrills of my life to settle down for a nice smooth landing with all the hard surface I could ever hope for ahead of me for taxiing to a stop.

PRAISES AIRPORT

We stopped only for a few minutes, turning around and taking off again before there could be any questions asked.

It's a real airport.

Yesterday on my way west, I was tempted to land once again before leaving, but thought better of it, so kept on.

I'm taking my time going out to Santa Monica, Cal., for the start of the race. I must be there by August 21, so that my ship may be checked over and test-flown for the handicap. The race starts two days later—and here's hoping!

(Mrs. Thaden, winner of the 1929 women's air derby, is writing exclusively for the Sun-Telegraph of her air experiences in this year's races.)

TEXAS TROOPS ENFORCE OIL OUTPUT BAN

KILGORE, Tex., Aug. 17.—(AP.)—Texas National Guardsmen, under command of Brig. Gen. Jacob F. Wolters, brought martial law today to the vast, untamed East Texas oil fields, with orders from Gov. Ross S. Sterling to effect an immediate shutdown of the 1,600 producing oil wells in the area. The shutdown also applied to natural gas wells.

Gen. Wolters stepped from a troop train and without delay posted Gov. Sterling's proclamation placing a production area of more than 600 square miles under martial law to prevent waste of oil.

VIOLATORS WARNED

The zone included Rusk, Gregg, Smith and Upshur Counties, Wolters said:

"It probably will require the rest of today to get the troops distributed. But we are posting the shutdown order effective immediately, and will arrest any person violating it.

"Resistance to the law of the state is insurrection. That's war, whether it be armed or not. We come not as enemies, but as friends. We want the co-operation of our fellow Texans in carrying out the conservation laws of this state."

There will be no court-martial trials for violating the shutdown order, Gen. Wolters announced. Violators will be arrested and held in jail until martial law is lifted. It is expected the troops will be withdrawn in about two weeks when the State Railroad Commission begins enforcement of the new conservation law.

BAN ON LIQUOR

Gen. Wolters, in command of the 56th Cavalry Brigade of the Texas National Guard, was accompanied on the troop train by units from Houston, San Antonio and Palestine. He said about 1,000 troops would be on duty.

A general order forbade intoxicating liquors in the area and provided for trial by court-martial of offenders.

RIOTING GRIPS 3 TOWNS IN IRELAND

Mob Attempts to Batter Down Gates of Convent; Belfast Rushes Police

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, Aug. 17.—(AP.)—Two nights of rioting in three towns have marked the feud between the "orange" and the "green."

A mob collected from surrounding districts marched around the town of Portadown, County of Armagh, last night and attempted to batter in the gates of a convent using a handcart for a ram. Thwarted, they contented themselves by smashing windows in several shops.

Truckloads of police were rushed from Belfast and the special constabulary was mobilized, their combined forces restoring order. A head constable of the district was injured slightly when struck by a flying bottle.

Orangemen and Republicans Saturday night vied in hurling bottles and stones and damaging business houses.

Four arrests were made in Armagh City in similar encounters before order was restored. A shop was burned in Lisburn near here and stones were hurled into the parish house.

At the town of Drum Reilly in County Leitrim last night, unidentified men surrounded a building in which farmers in the neighborhood were having a dance. With shotguns and rifles they fired a volley through the walls, but the dancers threw themselves on the floor and all but one escaped. He is Edward Gannon, who was taken to a hospital in a serious condition.

Three times the assailants fired, then they withdrew.

FAMILY LOYAL TO YATES AFTER SHOOTING

International News Service.

PATERSON, N. J., Aug. 17.—While reverberations from the shooting of Senator Roy T. Yates in the apartment of his girl friend sounded throughout New Jersey, his wife and daughter today announced they were unshaken in their loyalty and devotion to him.

Published inferences that his family was not standing by him and unconcerned as to his recovery were denied by Mrs. Yates, who said:

"We shall be ready at his beck and call praying only for his complete recovery.

"It is all a horrible dream. He may have strayed from the pathways, but I know it was only a temporary affair, just as a bad little boy strays from the home hearth and comes back to take a parental licking.

"I hope the rest of the world will remember what the Scriptures have taught us, 'Judge not, that ye be not judged.'"

DAUGHTER LOYAL

Olive Yates, 16, eldest daughter of the wounded Senator who is near death in a Manhattan hospital, issued a statement for herself and two sisters, Elsie, 12, and Ruth, 10. It said:

"How can they say the cruel things they are saying? I am concerned about our daddy. We have been praying for reassuring words that he was coming through the crisis. All we ask is to be left alone and we are praying for the day when our daddy will come back home well.

"We don't care about anything else in this world so long as our daddy pulls through this terrible thing in good condition. We are praying day and night and after seeing him and having talked to him I am certain that he will be spared to us for many years to come.

"I know that when this excitement is over and we all become calm and settled, that the truth will out."

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.

So Mrs. Hannah Cranmer declared last night in discussing the plight of her daughter, Ruth Jayne Cranmer, who is held by police in the wounding of State Senator Roy T. Yates, of New Jersey, during a drinking party.

A woman in her early 50s, whose brown hair and placid, unlined face belies her age, Mrs. Cranmer appeared crushed beneath the twin strains of illness and her daughter's predicament.

In her denunciation of prohibition, and its effect on Ruth, the mother said, vehemently:

"These parties that Roy and Ruth had—there were two people who simply didn't know how to drink.

WARNED RUTH

"I warned Ruth a thousand times. And once, in the apartment, when Ruth had obviously had too much, I said to Roy, 'You ought not to do this. Since you bring this stuff into the house, I'm not going to stay here.' Ruth told me, 'Well, if you go, I go to.'"

If Yates does not lose his life he probably will lose his seat in the New Jersey Legislature.

While specialists reported today that the wounded man's condition continued extremely critical, announcement was made in Trenton, New Jersey's capital, of preparations for impeachment proceedings.

SCHEMPP WINS GLIDER HONORS

ELMIRA, N. Y., Aug. 17.—(AP.)—Albert E. Hastings, the Los Angeles boy, who took soaring lessons from Frank Hawks, has won for the second time the Edward S. Evans trophy for American championship in glider flights.

Officials of the second annual gliding and soaring contest, held here, today announced Hastings the winner of the trophy. The Los Angeles pilot shared six points apiece with a Pittsburgh man, Martin Schempp, in the meet point scoring, but retained the Evans trophy by virtue of his duration flight of 7 hours and 30 minutes.

Schempp won first prizes for distance, altitude and aggregate time in the air.

Announcement of the winners was made by Louis F. Ross, official referee, of Cleveland, chairman of the technical committee.

Twelve of the 14 days of the meet saw weather far too calm to allow anything but automobile tow flights or brief glides from the summits of the hills near the city.

Movie Ship Blaze Routs Boyd, Troupe

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Aug. 17.—(INS.)—William "Big Bill" Boyd, screen actor of red-blooded roles, recorded thrills not planned in a new picture when the old sailing ship Bohemia, on which Boyd and a troupe of 80 were making a scene, caught fire in San Diego Bay, studio officials said.

No one was hurt, but the Bohemia, which is doomed to be blown up in the course of making the film, was damaged by fire before the U. S. S. Noa, a destroyer, drew alongside and put out the blaze.

GANDHI SCORNS PARLEY TO SPIN

AHMEDABAD, India, Aug. 17.—(AP.)—Mahatma Gandhi returned to his spinning declaration that his "inner voice" told him he should not go to London for the second round-table conference on Indian affairs unless the government agreed to investigate what he insists are breaches of the Delhi pact.

While the Mahatma reeled off yard after yard of yarn with his clawlike hands, he said:

"The web of India's destiny, I fear, must be woven in India, not in England. It is my notion that no Indian should look toward London at the present time. If I have not seen fit to go to London it is because I believe the interests of India lies in that course."

The Mahatma said he would make no overtures to the government on the question of his going to London. However, the feeling prevails here that the government will eventually find a way of compromise with him.

At the same time, he added, friendly relations are being maintained with New Zealand in the expectation they will lead to a mutually satisfactory agreement.

Russia Ready to Abolish Food Rations System

MOSCOW, Aug. 17.—(AP.)—Insistent rumors that the system of rationing foodstuffs in Soviet Russia is to be abolished reached a stage today at which it may be said on good authority that such action is a possibility of the not distant future.

Beyond the statement that no steps have been taken in this direction, there is neither confirmation nor denial of the reports from Soviet officials, but observers agree such a measure would be the logical outcome of the government's efforts to develop a socialistic state.

In quarters usually well-informed it is said the unrestricted sale of food and commodities is a virtual certainty and is not too far away.

The possible effect of such action probably would be to reduce Russia's grain exports proportionately with the increased domestic demand for bread.

The government inaugurated the food rationing system in the spring of 1929, dividing the populace into four categories, each of which was issued a rations card.

Man Engaged to Ex-Wife Drowns While Bathing

Mrs. Helen Hunihan's plans of remarrying her divorced husband were shattered by death today.

The husband, John Hunihan, 33, of 246 South Euclid avenue, whom she divorced last February after 11 years of married life, was drowned while bathing last night in the Allegheny River at Aspinwall.

Mrs. Hunihan sobbed as she viewed the body at the morgue last night. She told Deputy Coroner Mullen Jackson that she would arrange for the burial. Only a few hours before the tragedy occurred, Hunihan and his divorced wife had dined together in her home in the rear of 623 Bellefonte street.

A few months after their divorce the couple were reconciled and Hunihan visited his wife's home almost daily, relatives said. They declared that the two had planned to remarry soon.

COYNE PLEDGES JOB RELIEF IF ELECTED

Candidate for Commissioner Ridicules Platforms of Three Leading Opponents

State Senator James J. Coyne today made formal announcement of his platform in his campaign for the Republican nomination for County Commissioner. He promised to aid unemployment relief and charged that of three other leading [illegible] for the office [illegible] declared that the Board of Commissioners' record [illegible] new [illegible] for another [illegible] that he had [illegible] taxpayers [illegible] is making [illegible] his record of [illegible] proposed [illegible] years. He said:

"These men are entitled to their opinions as to what is pertinent and vital in the campaign for this important office of County Commissioner.

"To my way of thinking the most important issue facing not only every public official now holding office but also those who seek to hold public office after January 1 next year is

PLANS FOR WINTER

"To devise ways and means to mitigate the menace of unemployment during the coming winter, to do everything possible to see to it that there is a wage-earner in every family in Allegheny County through the adoption of some plan that will provide such employment until next spring without imposing undue burdens upon the taxpayers of this community.

"I consider it of paramount importance that in this national emergency all thought be concentrated upon this problem of unemployment, not alone because of the responsibility we have to our fellow men but also as insurance to protect and preserve our present Republican form of government."

URGES SIDEWALKS

Senator Coyne called attention to the millions of dollars that have been spent by the county on new roads and declared that future improvements must be confined largely to the elimination of curves, reduction of grades and the construction of pedestrian walks on one or both sides of the highways. He said:

"Thousands of persons have met death or grave injury traversing these roads, especially at night. These sidewalks must be built so that farmers and other residents along these roads may walk in safety."

He concluded his statement with this assertion:

"There are other important matters relating to the office of County Commissioner that I shall discuss during the campaign, and I am willing to stand or fall on my belief that the present paramount issue is the recognition of our obligations to the worthy unemployed of this community."

COYNE TICKET MEMBER QUITS

week, also is being touted as Armstrong's ticket mate. The Mansfield report, however, has it that Babcock will retire and the McKeesporter align himself with Armstrong as a bit of last-moment political expediency.

This report, coming from well-informed circles, said the "Organization" leaders feared that both Mansfield and County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern, leader of the so-called Independent faction, would be nominated if the four leading aspirants for the positions conducted individual campaigns.

KEY CANDIDACIES

Much interest centered in the candidacies of Sheriff Robert S. Cain and Dr. F. H. Frederick, seeking nomination as County Treasurer.

Cain is sponsored by State Senator James J. Coyne and is one of the key men in a ticket which the latter is expected to run in opposition to the Armstrong and McGovern slates.

Withdrawal of either of these men, or of Babcock, would be an indication, observers said, that the bitterly-fought and now unexpected Armstrong-Coyne alliance had been effected.

BRANDON, DUFFY QUIT

Former Magistrate Albert D. Brandon, a candidate for City Council, and John J. Duffy, for County Commissioner, were the first two withdrawals prior to today.

This morning five minor candidates took their names from the lists. They were Henry Griffin, for Constable of the Fifth Ward; Stanley M. Carling and Charles H. Bright, for Alderman of the Eighteenth Ward; Michael Cahill, for City Council, and E. H. Gitniff, for County Commissioner.

Griffin was to have faced a court hearing tomorrow on a charge, filed by some of his opponents, that his nominating petitions were worthless due to alleged fake signatures.

Finds Banjo Case Filled With Rum

Van Williams, 30, Negro, of 52 Fullerton street, walked along Grant street today carrying a banjo case. The way he carried it excited the suspicions of Patrolman J. Zabain, who stopped him and opened the case. He found seven [illegible] of moonshine but no banjo, he testified.

Magistrate Leo Rothenberg fined Williams $50 or 30 days in jail.

Barr Charges Armstrong With Waste; Lists 'Bungled' Projects

strong as the "builder and master planner."

"There will be a great silence, however, on the mistakes made on the Allegheny River boulevard, the airport and the overpayment to material men and contractors."

Taking a list of improvements credited to Armstrong, Barr denied the former was responsible for them and named the men who he said actually sponsored and attained each. A partial list of the Armstrong-accredited projects and those who Barr claimed really brought them about follows:

West End-Manchester Bridge, Henry Tranter, "Independent" candidate for County Treasurer.

PARKS PROJECT

North and South parks, County Commissioner E. V. Babcock at the suggestion of Theodore Huntley, secretary to United States Senator David A. Reed.

Sixth, Seventh and Ninth Street bridges, planned by the late County Commissioner Addison C. Gumbert and finally caused by a War Department condemnation and public necessity.

Woods Run-McKees Rocks bridge, the late State Senator William Flinn and Frank I. Gosser.

Liberty Tunnels and Bridge, both conceived by Gumbert, although the bridge, through a change in administration, was "poorly carried out" by Armstrong.

County Boulevard System, Allegheny County Planning Association and civic organizations.

'BUNGLED' PROJECTS

Among the "bungled" projects of the Armstrong administration Barr listed:

Duquesne bridge, where the "south approach is a disgrace to modern engineering technique."

The Boston Bridge, "inadequate for traffic needs."

Horace street ramp from Boulevard of the allies, "makeshift and adding a new traffic menace to Liberty Tunnel traffic."

Ardmore boulevard, cited in Armstrong campaign literature, which ignores the "indictment of county engineering through comparison of the wide, modern north roadway, built by the state, and the narrow, faulty construction on the south side, built by the county."

BOULEVARD BLUNDER

Babcock boulevard, "starting nowhere and ending at E. V. Babcock's farm."

Barraiso called on authorities to stop the placing of political signs on city and county owned property and called attention to a City Ordinance providing for a $25-fine for such action.

Four "Independent" meetings are scheduled for tonight: Electric Plan School, Turtle Creek; Means for Alderman Headquarters, Lowell street and Frankstown avenue; Wood Drug Store, Duquesne, and the American Legion Hall, Boggs avenue, Mt. Washington.

INDEPENDENTS OPEN FIGHT

Opening guns of the Republican primary election fight roared from the "Independent" faction's headquarters in the Magee Building today.

Besides the address of former State Senator C. M. Barr, chairman of the "Independent" campaign committee, who presided, numerous other speeches were made to a crowd which overflowed into the street.

State Deputy General Ralph H. Smith, candidate for District Attorney, assailed his organization opponent, Andrew T. Park, incumbent, and State Senator James J. Coyne, seeking a county commissionership. He accused Park of associating with "old line" politicians and called Coyne "a specialist in wet goods."

P. J. McArdle, seeking to regain a seat lost in City Council two years ago, picked Mayor Charles H. Kline as his target, saying:

"Bad conditions in Pittsburgh are due to the misuse of office by men who believe the exercise of office is solely to promote personal gain.

"The Mayor some time ago said 'To the victors belong the spoils,' and since then he has shown his idea of what constitutes the spoils."

County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern pleaded for election of all "Independent" candidates to aid his "constructive policies."

Armstrong, Judges To Speak in Carrick

County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong is scheduled to address the Twenty-ninth Ward Republican Club Wednesday night in Carrick Eagles' Hall, 2122 Brownsville road.

Others expected to speak include Judges S. J. Shee, William H. McNaugher and Samuel H. Gardner, seeking to succeed themselves; Attorney M. A. Musmanno, candidate for Judge of County Court, and Congressman Harry A. Estep.

Mehard Indorses Canuti for Judge

Attorney Churchill Mehard, solicitor for the Registration Commission, World War veteran and former Brigadier General of the Pennsylvania National Guard, has indorsed Attorney Frank F. Canuti for Judge of Common Pleas Court.

Attorney Canuti spoke yesterday in the Aspinwall Methodist Episcopal Church and broadcast last night over WJAS.

Webster, Envoy Meet, on Canvas, After 80 Years

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Two portraits, one of an American statesman and one of a foreign statesman, who together made history, hung side by side in the State Department after being separated for more than 80 years.

They are those of Daniel Webster, painted while he was Secretary of State, and Lord Ashburton, made in 1843 while he was special emissary of the British government to the United States.

The two statesmen were the authors of the famous Webster-Ashburton treaty which settled three important disputes between Great Britain and the United States.

DISLER SCORES FUND WASTE

Thomas S. Disler of 645 Boggs avenue, Republican candidate for City Council, has issued a statement pledging his energy to the reduction of taxes. He said:

"The public improvement vote-buying legislator is worse for the country than fire and pestilence or any depression we have ever gone through and unless the politicians now busy spending the public money wastefully are careful there will be a real revolt against their regime.

REICH GIVES UP PLACE FIGHT

Attorney Joseph H. Reich, candidate for judge of Common Pleas Court, has decided to refrain from legal proceedings to settle the question of his place on the ballot. In the initial drawing he got first place, but it was discovered that provision had not been made for all the candidates and in the second try he got eighteenth place, Reich stated.

"I believe that the people of Allegheny County have sufficient intelligence to choose the judges for whom they desire to vote irrespective of their position on the ballot.

"Under the circumstances, therefore, I have requested W. Clyde Grubbs, chairman of my campaign committee, to make no further issue in this matter."

Boy's Life Periled By Flip of Coin In Throat

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 17.—(AP)—The flip of a coin has decided many important issues at various times and it almost cost the life of 4-year-old Aaron Horst Jr. of New Holland, Pa.

In this instance the coin was in Aaron's throat. The child swallowed it last Friday but it apparently caused little distress.

Then the coin flipped. This reversal of position of the coin in the child's esophagus brought on a violent coughing spell.

Aaron's father raced to a Philadelphia hospital with the boy. Doctors removed the coin with the aid of a bronchoscope and reported Aaron well on the road to recovery.

PARK CAMPAIGN OFFICES OPEN

Campaign headquarters for District Attorney Andrew T. Park were opened on the first floor of the Plaza Building, Fifth and Sixth avenues, under direction of the Park's Lawyers' Campaign Committee.

Plans for meetings are to be announced. Attorney John S. Weller is committee chairman and members include Attorneys H. V. Blaxter, Alexander Gilfillan, William S. Moorhead and Allen H. Kerr. Attorney William B. McFall has been named speakers' committee chairman.

Leviathan Skipper Taken to Hospital

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Commodore A. B. Randall, captain of the Leviathan, who was stricken at sea with inflammatory rheumatism, returned a passenger when the ship docked here today from Europe. He was taken to a hospital.

LABOR TO SEEK AGE PENSION

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 17.—(AP)—A standard old-age pension law embodying the best of the different provisions proposed in various drafts of measures prepared was adopted during the sessions of the American Federation of Labor executive council, William Green, president of the federation, announced.

The council, his statement said, also went on record as opposed to having fingerprints taken of all appointees to positions under civil service, declaring the action humiliating to honest citizens.

The proposed old-age pension law provides for the payment of a pension of about $40 a month to dependent persons who have been residents of the state where the pension law is in effect and who are citizens of the United States. It provides that a dependent person may be eligible for a pension when he reaches 60 years of age.

YOU help—and we will succeed

this editorial tells the story
—reprinted from the July 27th issue of a Pittsburgh Newspaper

"Pittsburghers, how big are your hearts?

"Your help is imperatively needed for the aged survivors of the great fire at the Little Sisters of the Poor Home for the Aged, and we have no doubt it will be given generously.

"The poor old survivors are dependent upon charity and the selfless work of the nuns for the bare means of existence, and for little comforts to make their last days pleasant.

"To many of them, doubtless, the destruction of the Home for the Aged must seem like the end of the world. Their little possessions gone, they may be wondering whether they can possibly be taken care of for their few remaining days, and their misery and confusion of mind may be a real cause of illness or even death. You can help prevent that.

"The institution is non-sectarian. It is supported by public contributions without regard to church or religious belief.

"And the nuns ask only one question—if applicants have no place to lay their heads in comfort in old age. They strain every resource to take care of as many old folk as possible.

"Now it is the public's turn—YOUR turn."

2 WIVES BLAME RIFTS ON RUM

Moonshine was blamed by two wives in Morals Court today for disrupting domestic happiness. And the husbands in turn blamed "in-laws" as the cause of the discord.

Steven Harsh, 22, of 175 Cass avenue, accused by his wife, Mary, of beating her, blaming relatives for the dispute, said he had had nothing to eat but bologna for two weeks.

Similar testimony was given by Harry A. Rump, 31, of 2430 Howard street, accused by his wife, Catherine, of beating her.

Both cases were turned over to social workers for investigation.

Woman Puts Chicago Racketeer 'On Spot'

CHICAGO, Aug. 17.—(AP.)—Herman Horwitz, 38, minor hoodlum, was shot to death in his car early yesterday on a North Side street. Police today were searching for a "woman in green" accused of pointing out the victim to the assassins.

Witnesses said the woman talked with Horwitz for some time before two men fired six shots into his body. Horwitz' brother, Benjamin, was slain a year ago. His pal, Frank Cawley, was left dead two years ago by killers who put seven cents in his hand, a grim epitaph that meant he was cheap.

Jailing of Auto Visitors Here Protested

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—(AP.)—Jailing of a non-resident motorist on a civil action under authority of an 1836 Pennsylvania law was protested to Gov. Pinchot by Ernest N. Smith, executive vice president of the American Automobile Association.

Smith wrote Pinchot that M. J. Coakley, resident of the District of Columbia, had been held in jail a day and a night after being involved in an accident at Washington, Pa. Despite absence of any criminal charge, Smith said, Coakley was jailed when the other party to the accident filed a civil suit.

Man Sees Child Die, Attacks Interne

ERIE, Pa., Aug. 17.—(AP.)—Thought to have become deranged from the shock of seeing his 2-year-old son, Norman, die in a hospital here as the result of an automobile accident, Yvyze Felt, 27, attacked an interne at the hospital. Felt's machine had been overturned and the child crushed beneath the wreckage.

TEXAS QUAKES RECORDED HERE

The earth tremors which damaged Texas towns were recorded yesterday on the seismograph at the University of Pittsburgh. The first shock started at 4:10 a. m. Pittsburgh time and continued 35 minutes. The second and most severe occurred at 7:54 a. m., continuing one hour and 23 minutes, and the third at 9:42, lasting 18 minutes.

The records are being studied by Prof. J. Hammond Smith, of the civil engineering department of the University of Pittsburgh, who will make a report to Washington.

VALENTINE, Tex., Aug. 17.—(INS.)—Geologists speculated today on the earthquake that damaged practically every building in this town yesterday and was felt for a wide distance. Only one man was injured of the 650 population in Valentine.

The quake was felt in Jeff Davis, Brewster, Presidio, Culberson, Bud Spetch and El Paso counties and south of the Rio Grande in the State of Chihuahua, Mexico.

According to the San Antonio Weather Bureau, the earth tremor lasted 72 seconds in Central Texas.

BRITAIN SOUND, SNOWDEN SAYS

LONDON, Aub. 17.—(Universal.)—Britain is still solvent, declares Chancellor of the Exchequer Philip Snowden in an interview given to the Daily Herald today. He said:

"It is absurd to imagine that this country is in a state of bankruptcy. But it is in an extremely serious situation and measures must and will be taken commensurate with the gravity of the problem.

"There is no occasion for panic. We will see this thing through. This country has emerged successfully from more serious situations than confront us now."

Following a week of confused reports on Prime Minister MacDonald's efforts to reassure the financial world of Great Britain's stability, it was learned that MacDonald's solidest support came from King George.

Rarely does the King exercise an extra-legal prerogative, but, it was learned, Stanley Baldwin, Conservative leader, and Sir Herbert Samuels, Liberal party whip, cut off their vacations for the purpose of meeting the Prime Minister and other cabinet members last Thursday by "royal command."

Weary of Parleys, Laval Rests at Spa

VICHY, France, Aug. 17.—(AP.)—Premier Pierre Laval, who, like Foreign Minister Aristide Briand, was fatigued after the recent international conferences, has arrived here for several days of rest.

His entourage said his condition was not serious and that he would not take the usual three weeks' cure.

Factor Continues Extradition Fight

CHICAGO, Aug. 17.—(INS.)—John Factor's extradition hearing went into its twentieth session today before United States Commissioner E. K. Walker, with no end in sight. Since his surrender, May 25, on charges of bilking British investors of many millions, "Jake the Barber" has been in the custody of deputy marshals in a Loop hotel.

He died soon after being taken to the Ohio Valley Hospital, yesterday.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—(INS.)—Wheat prospects for Soviet Russia as a whole point to a crop considerably smaller than last year, despite the 7 per cent increase in acreage, Agricultural Attache Steere, at Berlin, cabled the Department of Agriculture. Poor crops, particularly of spring wheat, are now probable in several regions.

Hawks Sees Planes Flying at 1,000-Mile Speed

SUNBURY, Pa., Aug. 17 (AP).—The assertion that men can fly airplanes as fast as man [illegible] can make them to go was made by Capt. Frank M. Hawks, [illegible] speed flier, when he stopped for a brief visit at the Sunbury municipal field [illegible] on his way to Montrose [illegible]. He said:

"It is possible—but not probable that men will fly airplanes a thousand miles an hour within the next 10 years. Remember how awful a speed of 250 miles an hour was 10 years ago?"

DAVIS, BUTLER SPUR DRIVE ON GANGS

Senator and Fiery Marine Join With Father Coughlin For Protest Mass Meeting

Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—Like a giant wave, sweeping everything before it, interest grew today in the mass meeting of citizens to protest against gangster rule, arranged by the New York American, for Central Park Monday evening, August 24.

Gen. Smedley D. Butler, fighting general of the fighting Marines, telegraphed from Quantico, Va., enlisting in the ranks of decent citizens preparing to gather from every corner of the city to serve notice on gangsters and racketeers they must go.

Gen. Butler will stand side by side with the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, militant priest of the Shrine of the Little Flower in Detroit, who accepted an invitation to participate in the gathering earlier in the week.

Senator James J. Davis of Pennsylvania, the former secretary of labor, declared it a pleasure and privilege to participate in a protest against outlaws practiced by gangsters and racketeers. He wrote:

"Mr. Hearst and the American are to be congratulated on sponsoring such a movement and I am certain that the nation-wide discussion which is a result of your enterprise and patriotism will go far toward achieving the laudable end."

BIG INCOME TAX DROP SHOWN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17 (AP).—Treasury figures on tax collections for the fiscal year 1931 made public today were an eloquent explanation on why there was a governmental deficit of $903,000,000 on July 1.

The statistics compiled by the Internal Revenue Bureau showed a decrease of $611,916,978 in the $2,428,228,754 in the fiscal year 1931 as compared with the previous fiscal year. The figures did not include customs collections.

The major factor in the 23 per cent drop was the falling off of income taxes, which declined from $2,410,259,230 in 1930 to $1,860,040,497 last year. Individual income taxes totaled only $833,647,798, a drop of $313,196,965, and corporation taxes decreased $237,021,767 to an aggregate of $1,026,392,699.

NEW TRUCK TAX IN EFFECT

HARRISBURG, Aug. 17 (AP).—The 8 mills gross receipts tax on motor transportation of freight and passengers in Pennsylvania becomes effective today.

Reports on which the tax will be based must be filed semi-annually for the periods ending June 30 and December 31. The first report under the new tax will be for the period ending December 31, 1931.

In making their semi-annual reports, truck and bus owners will be permitted to deduct one-half of the license fee paid the state for the vehicle or local license fee paid to any city.

Pittsburgh Continues to Be Center of Church In U. S.; Receipts Decline

Pittsburgh, with 69,119 members, continues to be the center of Presbyterianism in the United States, according to the annual statistical review made public today by Dr. Lewis Seymour Mudge, stated clerk of the General Assembly.

The Pennsylvania Synod with a membership of 370,799, likewise leads the nation by more than 100,000 members. The First Presbyterian Church of Pittsburgh, with a membership of 2,502, is sixteenth among the leading churches. First Church of Wilkinsburg, with 2,040, is thirty-seventh.

CONTRIBUTIONS DROP

A decrease of $4,876,682 in contributions to church causes for the year ending March 31, 1931, as compared with the preceding year, according to Dr. Mudge, reflected the general financial depression.

Total contributions were $58,171,381. It was the first time since 1925 they had fallen below $60,000,000.

The major decrease was that of $4,079,496 in local congregational receipts. In support of official boards of the church, the benevolence contributions totaled $8,420,235, a decrease of $550,742 from the preceding year.

MEMBERS GROW

An increase of 15,023 was reported in the communicant membership, which totaled 1,999,131. The total Sunday school membership was 1,620,496, an increase of 24,466.

The number of ministers passed the 10,000 mark for the first time since 1928. A total of 10,014 was recorded.

The movement to strengthen local churches by dissolving those having only a nominal existence and by combining those serving practically the same constituency resulted in a reduction of the number of congregations to 9,242, a net decrease of 85 for the year.

TORTURE DEATH ARRESTS NEAR

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—(INS.)—Possible arrests appeared today in the cruel and brutal slaying of three men in a Brooklyn speakeasy last Friday night.

An unwilling eyewitness, police said, has given them three names responsible for the crime in which Charles Maturo, 35; Charles Simmineili, 36, and Joseph Barbert, 25, were hacked with knives and beaten to death with blackjacks.

The fight started when two young girls who had been mistreated at the speakeasy returned with two men companions and identified their assailants. According to the deputy chief inspector, the victims were placed in chairs and, as they begged for mercy, knives and stilettoes were hurled at them. After being tortured, their heads were crushed with an ax.

Play Bought by Paramount For Miss Colbert, to Be Made in West

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 17.

This melodrama, not to be confused with Fox's "Over the Hill," has a San Francisco background. The heroine is a woman with a past, who becomes engaged to a wealthy and aristocratic young man.

In the first production of the play on the Coast, Helen Menken and William Boyd had leading roles. Later [illegible] Young [illegible] different [illegible] Broadway.

Claudette Colbert

As matters stand the picture will get under way in November. Young, now an associate producer at Paramount, will be in charge. In the meanwhile Claudette does two pictures with Gary Cooper, in the East, Sal of Singapore and another story, the name of which has not been announced.

THE ENDLESS QUEST

Two out-of-work actors met in a Hollywood restaurant.

"Sit down," invited the first, "you're not doing anything."

OR A COLUMNIST

Larry Tibbett credits Pierre Monteaux, guest conductor of the Hollywood Bowl, with this barbed shaft:

"When I was a youngster full of ambition," says Monteaux, "I slaved hard and became a concert pianist. This proved too much work, so I decided to be a conductor. Eventually, when I lose my memory and am thoroughly worn out, I shall turn into a critic."

LATEST GOSSIP

With Wallace Beery around there is small chance of Clark Gable having his head turned by adulation. Last week Wallie had his picture taken among the chorus girls of "Flying High." He autographed a copy to Gable: "Dear Clark: Just to show you what an amateur you really are. What-A-Man Beery."

Wallace Beery

... Greta Garbo and Ramon Novarro had a test taken for "Mata Hari." It was a novel experience for them as neither is required to take tests under ordinary circumstances.

El Brendel is building a new house. One room is to have dirty wall paper and an iron bed. "Just in case I get to feeling too smart," explains El, "I can go in and see what I once had." ... Neil Hamilton is another star with a house under construction. ... Fay Wray is out here from New York for retakes on "The Unholy Garden." As soon as they are completed, she returns to be with John Monk Saunders when his play, "Nikki," opens on Broadway. ... Lilyan Tashman wears 17 different costumes in a new picture. That means two hours of fittings. With some stars the wardrobe department uses clothes-dummies. But they build the gowns right on Lil.

Lilyan Tashman

... Irene Dunne's husband, Dr. F. D. Griffin, is in town. He and the star will vacation in Del Monte. ... Eddie Robinson writes me from New York that his vaudeville tour is a big success. He incloses clippings to prove it.

SOME WITH MORE LUCK

These are the days when the contract actor breathes the freest, except at option times. John Halliday, one of the RKO stand-bys, will play the lead opposite Mary Astor in "Daughters of Joy." It is about a girl who rises above her past to be accepted by the 400. Herbert Brenon directs.

Another RKO item is the assignment of Dorothy Lee to play the ingenue lead in Dick Grace's thriller, "The Lost Squadron." It will be a vacation from her comedy roles. And speaking of vacations, Dorothy is enjoying one now in New York.

Things I Never Knew Till Now

(See You!)

That if you wet a dime (you shouldn't let 'em see you wet it, though) then place the dime on the mouth of a large ginger ale bottle and then squeeze the bottle's neck hard, the dime will actually jump!

That if you drop a piece of dry ice in a tumbler of water, the water will boil. (Why go to night school?)

That the United States Steel Corporation has stopped making horseshoes. (And I don't write this stuff behind a net, either!)

That very often I swipe these items out of books, magazines, papers, etc., and more dopes waste stamps telling me that I did.

That births are not permitted on the island of Myanoshito, Japan.

That a columnist is a person who really believes the compliments of people he has written up favorably.

That if you tear a dollar bill in halves—the first half to reach the U. S. Treasury gets a check for a buck. (Really—you'd be surprised at the stuff you can pick up in a speakeasy!)

That the girl who sings the naughtiest song in the Ziegfeld "Follies" is always escorted home from the stage door by her father.

That, according to the Pathfinder, trees in Germany's Black Forest are planted in rows. (I thought they were planted in the ground—tee hee!)

That if you are in your shirt sleeves you are not permitted to listen to the chimes in the Bok Tower, Florida.

That the Schmidt drug store in Shenandoah, Va., has run the identical ad in that town's weekly rag, The Herald, for 107 years, varying only at Christmas time, when it is enlarged.

That postcards cannot be used to collect overdue accounts.

That during "Legs" Diamond's trial, lasting a week, Diamond was out on bail to go wherever he pleased. But the jurors were locked up and practically imprisoned under close guard of marshals.

That the spurn (the whiskbroom) Scotsman wear on the front of their kilts is the only pocket on the costume.

That if you light your lady's cigaret be sure and hold the match high, so her pretty eyelashes won't be singed, you dope!

That Ben Block paid $7,500 for a horse that he bought in a claiming race. The gee-gee made $250,000 for him. It was Morvich.

That New York ranks second among all the states in the production of (you'll never guess) hay! (By heck!)

That wetting the hair thoroughly once or twice with a solution of salt and water is the best tonic for falling hair.

That Disraeli, who fearlessly wielded empires, developed a rash on the backs of his hands whenever he touched violets.

That Lee's surrender to Grant did not end the Civil Tiff. Thirty-three days after the surrender, Blue and Gray forces battled near Pala Pinto, Tex., and what's more the Confederates won!

That Green River, Ky., was named in honor of Gen. Nathaniel Greene. So they honor him by omitting the final "e."

That only masculine men get bald. (Whoops!)

That Washington Irving erred in presuming the Dutch called the Catskill Mts. by that name. They were tagged "The Catsbergs."

That a pearl is not a precious stone. It's a precious shell!

That according to etiquette books a gentleman never keeps his hands in his pockets. The Prince of Wales seldom removes his!

That France brags of her artistic taste. But Daumier was cast in prison, Manet was insulted, Rodin was branded a fake and a monster, and Victor Hugo was banished.

That Madame de Stael lived in Paris through the Reign of Terror, traveled alone in Russia and Finland, and made Napoleon afraid of her. But she fainted whenever she saw boiled lobsters.

That Theophile Gautier, who had an enormous appetite, would not eat bread. He declared that it had become the most vicious symbol in the world and that the struggle for it had ruined France.

That a Gentile isn't a Christian. He's a Heathen!

That Max Nordau hated all epigram makers. He considered them enemies, and once when a lady cousin pulled one he punched her mouth.

That if the hair curls at the nape of your neck you're the type who carefully inspects the items on your restaurant check.

That a prisoner who is stiffly fined doesn't have to pay it. He can take an extra month instead, but must prove he is a pauper.

That if you play "Ach du Lieber Augustine" backwards it is "Gimme a Little Kiss, Will you, Huh?" (Boy, I'm wonderful!)

Sporting

Madge Evans and Clark Gable will be prominent in "Sporting Blood," which has a race-track angle, on the Penn screen Friday.

TWO MEN HELD IN FATAL BLAST

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Aug. 17.—State and county authorities are believed to be near the solution of the explosion and fire Thursday morning in the property of Dominick Pagley, Highland avenue extention, in which Tony Spagnola, 42, of Rochester, Pa., was burned to death, as the result of the arrest Saturday of Dominick Pagely and his uncle, Harry Pagely, who resided in the property.

They have been charged by Deputy State Fire Marshal Walter L. Gibbons, with arson and conspiracy before Alderman O. H. P. Green, as a result of the investigation of the authorities. They were remanded to the County Jail, but late Saturday night were released under $2,000 bail each, which they posted before Mayor William H. Gillespie.

Drake Well Site Road Fund Appeal Made

FRANKLIN, Pa., Aug. 17.—Declaring that Venango County, cradle of the oil industry, has a chance to achieve new fame, citizens have appealed to the Board of Commissioners for appropriation of $5,200 toward cost of constructing a half-mile of highway to the Drake well site near Titusville. The American Petroleum Institute already has given $60,000 for a suitable memorial, the state has provided a maintenance fund, and now only a modern road needs to be constructed.

Connellsville Church Plans Centennial

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Aug. 17.—The First Presbyterian Church of this city, of which Dr. J. L. Proudfit is pastor, will celebrate its centennial with a week of service beginning October 4, it was announced. The Rev. Lewis I. Mudge, moderator of the general assembly of the Presbyterian Church, and Dr. Hugh Thomson Kerr, of Pittsburgh, former moderator, are among the speakers listed. The church was organized October 4, 1831.

Franklin Steel Mill Starts Big Contract

FRANKLIN, Pa., Aug. 17.—Chicago Railway Equipment Company, division of Franklin Steel Works, starts work today on 10,000 steel brake-beams for Erie Railroad Company, largest order the local plant has received in three years. Contract means three months' work for one mill.

Plays, Players and By-Play

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

There is no justification for the heading of this department today, except that referring to players, of whom the writer has become one. There is no justification for the article itself, except to explain the culprit has gone on vacation. Hence, temporary disappearance of the department is not to be construed as evidence that outraged readers and justifiably indignant subscribers have, at last, in their wrath, descended upon the editorial sanctum and wreaked violent justice upon the perpetrator hereof.

It will be a regular vacation, with bathing, riding and the acquirement of tan, as the concommitants, as we, in a spasm of merriment, feel disposed to term attending circumstances. When it is possible to evade it no longer, we shall bathe in our rich and voluptuous tubbe de bawth. Our riding shall be done amidst the slightly worm-eaten greenery that forms the sideground and frontground of a porch that is otherwise bounded by cheery red bricks and the usual blue mortgages. Our mount will be the trusty rocking chair that Aunt Susie has reduced to a state of extreme tractability.

We are not so positive about the acquirement of tan. It appears that the inducement thereof may involve the shortening of various sparse spears of grass that we sometimes cheer up by calling it "Lawn." Why should we cause grass to swell up by feeding it flattery and then discourage it by ruthlessly cutting it down just as it begins to rear itself into the realm of exclusive suburban society? No, on second thought, the tan may be out. On third thought, it is out!

* * *

Small Timer says that if you begin your vacation with a sunny disposish, so live that you will not awaken each morning with a moony indisposish.

Doubles

Fifi Dorsay will be seen on the screen in support of Will Rogers in "As Young as You Feel," an in person in the Stanley, opening Friday.

CIRCUS MOVING FAILS AGAIN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Another attempt to move the stranded 101 Ranch Wild West show has failed despite efforts of officials provided with an injunction to prevent employes from interfering.

A crew of 36 men recruited from Baltimore was sent to the lot on which the show went broke two weeks ago. The 400 employes, who refused to pull up stakes without being paid $28,000 in back wages, stood by while the substitutes drew up in a bus. Two of the newcomers got out, but before the rest emerged, there was a general decision to turn back.

THRONGS VISIT COUNTY PARKS

The swimming pool in the South County Park attracted 7,841 Allegheny countians yesterday according to a report today by the Allegheny County Bureau of Parks. Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh's Society Happenings

In Mayfair

—With—

Patricia Pitt

Although we are not going to have so many debutantes as we thought some time ago, the winter season is going to be a gay one nevertheless. And with fewer debs, there'll be more dates open for parties for each girl.

One of the girls I thought probably would come out this winter, Katherine Leila Ward, daughter of the C. S. B. Wards, will not be presented for a year or two. Katherine spent the past winter with her mother and two younger sisters, Mary Virginia Ward and Elizabeth Ward, studying abroad. Just now the Wards are at home.

Plans for several debutantes have been postponed for a time because of mourning in the family. But even if their debut parties are not given until late in the season, or not until 1932, they will attend some of the late winter parties given for their friends.

Lillian Lafburg, daughter of the George Lafburgs of Baum boulevard, and Merlin Vincent Wills of New Kensington were married Saturday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock at a home ceremony.

The bride wore a gown of white satin, fashioned with long, close-fitting sleeves, with a veil of tulle cascading from a cap of rose point. Her bouquet was of bridal roses, bouvardia and lilies of the valley. Her matron of honor, Mrs. L. S. Cotton, wore pale blue satin with dropped tiny sleeves of net and she carried pink roses. Mr. Cotton served as best man.

Mrs. Kemble I. Riddle, accompanied by Mr. Riddle, violist, furnished the wedding music.

The bride's mother wore black lace with a corsage of orchids. There was a reception for 50 guests after the ceremony, which took place before an embankment of palms, ciboriums, ferns and garden flowers.

After a Canadian trip, the Willses will be at home in Pittsburgh. The bride will return to Pennsylvania College for Women this fall and the bridegroom will continue his work for his doctor of philosophy degree at the University of Pittsburgh. He teaches in Homestead High School.

SPONSORS NEW CONTEST

B. P. W. Offering Poster Prizes To Students

So successful was this year's poster contest that the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs is sponsoring another in order to procure the official poster for National Business Women's Week in 1932. Each state has been asked to conduct its own contest and to send its winning poster to New York to be judged in the national contest, which will close November 10 of this year.

The contest is open to students in art schools and in art departments of high schools, but no one under 15 is privileged to compete. Each contestant may submit only one entry and the posters, which must be bold and simple and suitable for reproduction in not more than three colors, may be with or without slogan.

The committee asks that the posters be judged by well-qualified persons.

FROCKS OF LACE REMAIN POPULAR

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph

PARIS, Aug. 17.—Fashion still lurks in the mesh of delicate lace. The lace frock has become an accepted member of the wardrobe family that is always with us. It fills so many needs and is ideal for informal evening wear. Of course, it can also be grand, very grand, indeed, when it is combined with a precious fur. But for most of us, it is at its best when used as the indispensible little frock that has become ever so much more important for general evening wear than the very formal toilette. Particularly is this so since entertaining itself has become far more spontaneous and simple than it used to be, and so our clothes must have the same quality. And this is admirably met by the frock of lace, simple in cut and detail, but always of fine quality. One cannot sound too loud a warning against cheap lace. It is not worth anything at all and its poor quality cannot be disguised.

* * *

WE SHOW a sketch of a new lace frock by Lenief. Beige and black lace are combined. The surplice bolero dips behind in a point with a jewelled buckle and black cired ribbon bow holding it flat against the waistline. The triple-tiered skirt trails slightly in a point behind.

Of course, you'd be able to find pretty doodads somewhere else; but—hunt high, hunt low—you'd never find better food for eating purposes. And it's always fresh. We have too many customers for food to get stale on our shelves.

If you had money to burn, you'd still want the best things to eat. Which leads us to believe you'd keep right on trading with us. And don't you think your plane would look rather nice parked in front of our store?

There is a distinct departure from the fashions of yesteryear in the mode of tomorrow, with sleeves taking a more important role. The silhouette is somewhat snug at the hips, and wider at the shoulders. One sees cuffs assume added charm, reaching to and above the elbow. Deeper arm holes; puffs at the elbow achieved by fabric together with fur; soft, becoming collars, ofttimes with unusual scarf arrangements; all make for youth and individuality. All are beautified with furs from our own collections.

I'll answer [illegible] question by telling [illegible] for me. [illegible] and a half years ago [illegible] Mary [illegible] was a case [illegible] I guess [illegible] appealed to me as something [illegible] a thing [illegible]. At any rate [illegible] madly in love with each other. But we didn't have enough [illegible] to marry on. Mary [illegible] we should have some [illegible] the back of a [illegible]. So we started to save [illegible]. We wanted to have $500 [illegible] was slow work though [illegible] another [illegible] well [illegible] an [illegible]. We felt that we belonged to each other because we [illegible] each other so much and that everything would work out all right. We were happy for a while.

Then doubts began to creep into my mind. When I was called away on business [illegible] was Mary doing? She was working [illegible] and I knew she [illegible] man who wanted [illegible]. Did she accept? I didn't quite expect her to sit at home all the time while I was gone but I began to wonder [illegible]. What did she do when she went out with these fellows? She told me where she went [illegible] and [illegible] question [illegible] that [illegible] her?"

WENT TO SEA

Then one day I thought I was going [illegible] told her so [illegible] the day I was [illegible] put off [illegible]. She was out. I [illegible] the next morning [illegible] work without having seen her. I'd wanted a [illegible]. My mind was in a whirl. I got the day off. I couldn't work. I went to see her and she told me she had been at a girl friend's house. I went home and thought, doubted and planned. The upshot was that I quit my job and left town. For I didn't believe her. I sailed as an apprentice seaman on a boat. For a year and a half I treated girls as so much waste.

Then [illegible] I came home and opened a little store with another fellow. And I began to wonder what had happened to Mary. I wrote to her sister [illegible] I got a [illegible] that Mary [illegible] sick and [illegible] when I [illegible] and said she [illegible] but she didn't [illegible] me [illegible] she would [illegible]. Was she [illegible]? [illegible] from her side.

A BAD BARGAIN

Well, we were married [illegible] and Sunday [illegible] from [illegible] we are all. I know that free love does not pay. If we hadn't been living that way I would have [illegible] and we would have been happily married [illegible] and working together.

I know that this is a long [illegible] help someone [illegible] out of that kind of a mess [illegible] feel that Mary did not [illegible].

BOB

Is free love free? You've read one man's answer. Yes, free love is free—with a price [illegible] of freedom. Free love is free—from peace of mind [illegible] from safety and contentment [illegible] from proud sweet memories [illegible] from dignity and simplicity and friendship and respect, and from all the safe, sane understanding which happily married folk know. From all these good and beautiful things free love is free. Do you think such freedom pays? A dollar saved on a [illegible] a lifetime of heartbreak—is that a good bargain?

Yet that is the bargain every free lover makes.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

When Castor Oil May Prove to Be Harmful

Recently I visited a friend who was recuperating from an operation for appendicitis. In the course of conversation he told me that prior to his operation he had been awakened during the night by severe abdominal cramps.

He thought he needed a cathartic so he took a dose of castor oil. Not long after that his abdominal pain became more intense and he began to vomit.

Dr. Copeland

A surgeon was then called who rushed him to the hospital and removed his appendix. He had a stormy but fortunately a successful convalescence.

He could not understand why I scolded him for taking the castor oil. The fact is acute abdominal pain is usually aggravated and may be made decidedly worse by taking so powerful a drug as castor oil. It is the most dreadful thing to do in a case of acute appendicitis.

Following the taking of the oil, if the appendix is badly involved, it is likely to rupture. A ruptured appendix is indeed a serious condition and requires great skill on the part of the surgeon.

Never take castor oil for severe abdominal pain. By no means repeat the dosage if you are seized with nausea and vomiting.

Of course I do not mean to say that all attacks of acute abdominal pain are due to appendicitis. But rather than take any unnecessary risk consult with your physician.

It is a good rule to remember that every case of severe abdominal pain may possibly be acute appendicitis. This ailment should first be definitely ruled out before taking a physic.

Answers to Health Queries

P. M. Q. What do you advise for varicose veins?

A. If the varicose veins are slight, bandaging or wearing an elastic stocking is often effective, but in most cases surgical procedure is necessary.

* * *

C. T. Q. My hair is very thin and does not seem to grow. What would you advise? Will going hatless harm or benefit the hair?

A. The condition of the scalp and hair usually depends upon the state of the general health. Going hatless in the warm weather should be beneficial. Sun and air are most beneficial for the hair and circulation.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Condolence Expression

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. Will you please draft a letter suitable to send a friend who has recently lost her mother?

2. I would like too a reply that would be correct to send friends who had sent flowers and offered sympathy during a bereavement?

F. C.

1. Perhaps this will suggest a form to you:

Dearest Mary:

My thoughts have been with you constantly during these shadowed days and I am sending you now my deepest sympathy and my constant love.

I am thinking over all the years that I have known and loved your dear mother and thinking deeply of her life which found such exquisite expression in her love for you and in her beautiful understanding and appreciation of your friends. To have had such a mother is a privilege granted to a few of us, and as you in the days to come will cherish her memory so will I cherish the remembrance of her goodness to me.

If I can be of service to you please do let me come.

Ever devotedly yours,

JANE.

2. For every gesture of sympathy, flowers, letters, we write a note of thanks. Something like this:

Dear Mrs. Brown:

You were most kind to send such a beautiful message of sympathy and we appreciate it very much. Thank you for your thought [illegible] flowers were beautiful and they spoke to us of your sympathy and understanding.

Very sincerely yours,

MARGARET ROBINSON.

Extremely Bad Taste

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am going away on my vacation very shortly and I will visit several cities where I do not know anybody. Would it be appropriate to ask the clerk or manager of the hotel where I will stay to introduce me to some gentleman who would be glad to take me around to the various places of interest, or isn't this done?

CONSTANT READER.

No, ma'am, this certainly is not done, and if you do such a dangerous thing you will be showing not only extremely bad taste but extremely bad judgment.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Tint the eyelids with rouge. Just a stingy bit, and observe how the rosy surface brings out the color of the eyes and makes more noticeable the eyelashes. Don't forget the wee blush on the chin and two more on the earlobes.

When the years pile up and wrinkles put their seams upon the face white hair is a blessing. It may even serve as a rejuvenating element, make a woman look younger. Prematurely gray hair is an affliction because it classes a girl among her elders. Whether or not the top-crest should be dyed depends upon a woman's feelings. If gray hair makes her feel old she should find means of darkening it.

Starving to Reduce and Preserve Youth Mania With Many Women—Fay King

AN OLD MOUSE DOES NOT LOOK AS YOUNG AS A BABY ELEPHANT
FAY KING

By FAY KING

Starving down to a skeleton, which they imagine preserves the undeveloped lines of budding youth, has become a mania with many women.

Size has nothing to do with that vital spark of first youth which cannot be disguised or imitated.

The midgets, tiny as they are, with childlike voices, have the mark of maturity in their manner.

The real youth of the boy made up as an old man in the college play penetrates the part no matter how clever his acting or disguise.

But an older star, tiny and slender as she may be, in a scene with real children twice her size, makes a glaring contrast.

Dicky Begins Another Investigation

"Just what do you suspect?" I asked quietly when Dicky said that he would like to see what a good private investigator could dig up about the owner of the big blue sedan, which the pseudo bank bandits were supposed to have stolen.

"Here's the idea." He turned from my mirror, where he had been brushing his hair. He says that my mirror is better than his and always comes into my room when he is preparing for a journey. I humor him in his pretense, hugging to my heart the whim that my restless Peter Pan likes to have me around when he is starting on a journey, if for nothing else, as he tells me, sometimes mischievously, but to blame things on me.

"These birds that pulled this fake are the cagiest ever, but did you notice anything about the rather class humor of that epistle they penned on the parchment and put into the oiled paper?"

I put into words a vague idea that had been in the back of my mind ever since the morning when we had opened the oiled-silk packet.

"It was a bit reminiscent of Samuel Brixton."

He put down his brush and stared at me.

"Not so slow yourself, are you, Sherlockia?" he said.

"It was only a vague impression," I said, "and I may be wrong."

"Why hedge on a good hunch?" Dicky demanded. "I didn't think of it at first, but after two or three readings of the thing I began to find a knothole or two where the sunlight was streaming through. You see, Harry doesn't know Brixton at all. You remember how carefully he absented himself from the party, and Lil isn't in exactly the state of mind to see anything, she loathes Brixton so much and is so taken up with Harry's emotional reactions to the whole thing. Dad saw practically nothing of the man, either, so you and I are the only ones who can judge the thing with any authority."

"Are you going to tell father your impressions?" I asked.

"Why?" he countered. "Everything's settled down now, and he has enough on his mind with these preparations he's making for guarding the house from those Chinese. The Lord knows I want you and the children well protected, but it's my opinion that the respected parent is going a bit nutty on the subject. A person would think he expected another Boxer Rebellion to be staged in the front yard. I don't see why he doesn't plan to build another Chinese Wall around the farm."

"Then I'll say nothing to him about the letter reminding me of Samuel Brixton," I decided. "But tell me what you'll start a good private investigator to hunting?"

"The past and present associates, business and friendly, of the gent who owns that stolen blue sedan lately occupying a commanding position upon the bed of Peconic Bay. Oh! I know what the police will find. He'll be an eminently respectable citizen, and he'll have been squawking all over the place about his stolen car, and the negligence of the police, and so forth, the usual spiel. And after a few cursory inquiries the police will dismiss all investigation in his direction, and he'll go back home and start fussing with his insurance policies. But I'd like to follow the red wool thread a little farther through the maze."

"Thinking you'd find what when you finally reach Rosamond's bower?" I asked smiling.

"If I ever reach it, there won't be any bower, nothing but a heap of kindling," he declared vindictively. "I'm playing the hunch, of course, that the unknown owner of the blue sedan is a pal of Brixton's and permitted his car to be 'stolen,' incidentally collecting some nifty insurance, even if it survives its bath in the bay. But how to prove it? That particular trail will be well covered, you can gamble on that."

"I'll take your word," I told him smiling. "But, ought you not to be starting pretty soon? The boys' train gets in at noon, you know."

"And it's all of seven now," Dicky retorted with a teasing smile at me. "If I can't drive in reverse all the way to New York and arrive at the Grand Central in time to collect Hank and Bill I'll turn in my driver's license and never touch a wheel again."

I laughed as I never can help doing at his extravagances, but I slipped out of the room nevertheless, upon the plea of seeing to his breakfast. I knew if I stayed he would dawdle and find any pretext possible to keep me talking, for Dicky, who never misses a train, always waits until the last possible or, rather, impossible second to start an automobile journey.

"You must start, dear," I told him insistently, later, when he was smoking his after-breakfast cigar and joking what his mother would call "a blue streak" to me. "You know Hank and Bill aren't used to the city, and I'm so afraid you'll miss them at the train."

"All right, all right," he grumbled as he rose, "but I know what I'm mighty well used to, and that's blowing second saxaphone to everybody else where you're concerned."

Shaping Baby's Ears

By CONSTANCE CAMERON

The mother of a brand new baby said to me the other day, "the first thing I looked at were his ears, and they do lie so flat and nice next to his head."

That mother is fortunate, for ears which spread out like sails surely aren't good to look at. But even though a baby comes into this world with flaring ears, there is no reason to be discouraged about it. For with proper care they can be made to lie flat against the head.

Make sure that your baby is turned at least twice while he sleeps, once from his back to his right side, then later to his left. This will also shape his head nicely and prevent the flat back-head which also is unsightly.

Be sure that in putting on his bonnet you tuck his ears flat behind its sides and, as he grows older, make sure that caps and hats aren't pulled hastily down on top of the ears, but OVER them.

If your child has developed the outstanding ear and is too old to have these treatments be of much value, there is a slight operation which, if done by a competent surgeon, corrects the trouble permanently.

But prevention is so much better than a cure that it is worth while watching the ears while the child is still an infant. The fault may be corrected in a child of 6 months and through the toddler age by taping the ears back with adhesive tape, but care must be taken that the skin doesn't become inflammed and sore through this method.

The best way, if it is still possible, is to start when baby is still very young, watch his position while sleeping, and note the position of his ears after any headgear has been put on him.

Household Hints

When selecting a lobster, be sure and get one whose tail is curled tightly to its body, for this is a sign of freshness.

When the red tiles of the fireplace or porch floors become dull, rub them with a cut piece of lemon and a little salt and then wash with warm soapy water.

Give the cake a few bumps on the kitchen table just before putting it into the oven and it will never fall. This will cause all the air bubbles to come to the surface and break, thereby removing all cause for falling.

All In A Day

By Mark Hellinger

DURING THE LAST YEAR of night clubbing, one character in particular stands out in my memory. He is a huge man, some 6 feet 5 inches tall. His hair is coal black, his blue eyes watery and his teeth prominent. His laugh is like the bellow of a bull and it's always 10 to 1 that he'll be drunk when you meet him.

His money seems to grow on some magic tree. He spends like a fleet on a spree. Popularity sits in the hollow of his hand. Youth and beauty are always around him, for the women think the world of him and his pocketbook. In this story I will call him Dave.

For a long time I have wondered about Dave. Obviously he has no business, for no matter in what club he is, he generally is the first to arrive and always the last to leave. Which means that he plays all night and sleeps all day. And that's no game for a business man.

Last week I learned his story. Suddenly and unexpectedly. It came from a girl who sat alone at a table and looked at him holding the hand of another woman. She was jealous. Absurdly so.

"He's strictly a phoney," was her opening declaration, "and you can believe every word I'm telling you. 'Cause I know him. And how!

"Sixteen months ago that guy didn't have the price of a box of cough drops. He was drifting from this to that, and, after a while he naturally fell into the game of selling oil stock.

"He started out in the regulation way. Bought himself a piece of Texas property that retailed for about two cents a mile, opened up a little office, gave the whole business a lorgnette name and went out selling stock on various kinds of pretty paper.

"For a time he found himself prosperous. He thought he had struck gold with oil. But the blow-off came just like it always does.

"Some widowed dame bought herself a fistful of the junk paper and wired Texas to find out about her precious property. The reply made her put on her Sunday hat, jump in a cab and rush to the district attorney's office. Once there, she raised a squawk that must have been heard in Newark.

"The D. A. listened. He called in a couple of other suckers and then laid the whole shooting match before the grand jury. As a result Dave was indicted. And for a time it looked as though he was going to be the guest of the government for many a day to come.

"They had him by the back of of the neck and it looked like quick curtains on his immediate future. But Dave isn't the kind of a guy who'll go down without a struggle. So he took himself to one of those gyp lawyers and asked the law twister what could be done.

"The lawyer went over the whole matter very carefully and said there was only one chance for Dave.

"And that was for Dave to go to Texas, drill a couple of holes and shoot a couple of barrels of oil into said holes. Then when the case came up for trial, Dave could at least show that he was actually operating to a certain extent.

"Dave took the shyster's advice. He borrowed a couple of grand from some Santa Claus and took the first train for Texas. Once there he hired a few men, threw some machinery together and commenced to bore, or whatever you call it.

"Dave figured that two weeks of drilling would do the trick. He would then shoot in a little oil, get some pictures, return to New York and beat the indictment. At least, that was the idea in the back of his noodle.

"Well, here's the gag. His men weren't on the job more than a week when something happened. Dave was in a shack knocking off a couple of drinks when his men suddenly commenced to holler like blazes. He got up, looked out of the window and saw a stream of something that looked like dirty water shooting up from one of those fool holes.

"The donkey had struck oil on the very land that wasn't supposed to be worth a plugged nickel!

"Well, the rest was easy. He came back to New York immediately, bought in most of his stock for next to nothing and saw the indictment go by the boards.

"Meanwhile, that oil keeps coming stronger and stronger and it's doing the same thing this very day.

"Dave's income at the present time is over $700,000 a year. And all he does to earn it is drink champagne.

"Look at him sitting over there. Drunk as a lord and holding hands with that awful-looking dame, when he might be holding mine. Ain't it all a great laugh?"

And that is the story of Dave, one of Broadway's biggest spenders. He was dishonest. The law searched him out. And then fate stepped in.

Today he just dances. And drinks. And loves . . .

TIP BY SCORNED GIRL NETS 8

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—(AP)—On the tip of a nightclub hostess who said she sought revenge on an ex-sweetheart, 125 policemen surrounded a Brooklyn apartment house and after a gun fight lasting 40 minutes captured six suspected bandits and two girls.

More than 100 shots were fired by the officers from machine guns, pistols and shotguns, while the besieged men sent at least 40 bullets through the windows and doors of their hideout. No one was wounded.

When the shooting in the apartment ceased, detectives battered down the doors with crowbars. They found the six youths, whom they accused of at least 100 holdups in three months, lying on the floor and the two girls hiding under beds.

The prisoners gave their names as Margaret Ward, 25, East Rochester, N. Y., and Jean McGuen, 20, Rochester, N. Y., and Michael Grillo, 26; Frank Russo, 18; John Simone, 19; Thomas Contaldo, 18; Eugene Urrah, 21, and Samuel Mignone, 26, all of Brooklyn.

Dr. William J. Holland, 83, Happy in Having Been Aid to Community

By PENELOPE REDD

Penelope Redd

Dr. William J. Holland, Pittsburgh's first citizen, today celebrates his 83rd birthday.

He has been a distinguished personage in the life of Pittsburgh for almost 60 years.

Known to the world officially for his own achievements in natural science and as an educator, he has enjoyed a wider acquaintance than probably any other living American.

While at Amherst College, the group of New England literary men, Oliver Wendell Holmes, James Russell Lowell and Henry Whittier inspired his youth.

He knew personally every president from Grant to Wilson. His friendship with Wilson dated back to the days at Princeton when Wilson was a professor.

In Pittsburgh he coincided in time and in friendship with the great industrialists. Andrew Carnegie named Dr. Holland as the first trustee of the Carnegie Institute. He officiated at the marriage of Henry C. Frick. George Westinghouse was ever his close friend.

KNEW SCIENTISTS

Dr. Holland's prodigious gift for work gained him an eminent place as a scientist. He has known well all of the most famous scientists, both in the field of natural science and in invention.

He has been made a member of all the official societies in the principal countries of the world as well as having received honorary degrees from the foremost universities.

His international position has been recognized in the form of government decorations from France, Germany, Italy, Russia and Spain, Franz Josef, of Austria, and King Albert, of Belgium, per-

Police said the men were employes of a carnival which opened at Tarentum last week.

4 DEAD, 12 HURT IN AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENTS

Munhall Man Killed as Car Hits Tree; Victim Repairing Machine Injured Fatally

Four men died and 12 other persons were injured in automobile accidents in the Pittsburgh district yesterday and early today.

Richard Miller, 23, of Melvin avenue, Homestead Park, Munhall, died in Homestead Hospital a short time after an automobile in which he was riding with two companions crashed into a tree and overturned on Pleasant Hill near the Clairton road, Jefferson Township, early today. Wilbert Roland Wilson, 23, of 134 East Virginia avenue, Homestead Park, a fellow passenger, died a few hours later.

OUT OF CONTROL

The accident occurred, police said, when Clair Bentz, 23, of 4000 Main street, Homestead Park, apparently lost control of the machine. The trio were taken to the hospital by C. T. Isabel, of 2818 Brentwood avenue, Brentwood, a passerby. Bentz suffered body contusions.

Robert Patton, 30, of 748 Boquet street, McKees Rocks, was standing on the running board of an automobile making repairs yesterday when the car sidewiped a pole while turning at River avenue and Robb street, McKees Rocks. He was caught between the pole and auto. Taken to Ohio Valley Hospital, he died a short time later.

David DeNardo, 30, of School street, Clairton, died early today in McKeesport Hospital from injuries suffered August 6 when a motorcycle he was riding collided with an automobile in Bellaire avenue, Clairton, according to the coroner's report.

Stockingless, Shoeless in Woods Shack

ELSIE HIRST, 14 LOUISE, 15 ROSIE, 12
The three daughters of Mrs. Caroline Hirst, living with their mother in a rough shack in a wooded copse off Woodstock avenue since they were dispossessed at 1207 Beaver avenue.

Beans, Garden Keep Family Of 4 From Starvation

A few dried beans in a jar and a little half exhausted truck garden are all that lies between Mrs. Caroline Hirst and her three children and starvation, Mrs. Hirst says.

The family have lived in a rude shack built by Mrs. Hirst on the Woodstock avenue hillside property of Edwin Wynn since last November. Two weeks before they were dispossessed at 1207 Beaver avenue, North Side, Mrs. Hirst walked back and forth every day getting the hut ready for her children.

During the winter they dug coal from the hillside and burned wood to keep warm, she said. She did housework a few days a week for a former neighbor, but has not worked for two months. She said:

"We have been living off the garden, but the potatoes are not doing well and we have no money to buy bread. School time is coming soon, and I cannot buy shoes or stockings for my three little girls."

She has had no help from city charities, she said, although she has applied to several. She continued:

"I don't ask for much, but I have worked and pinched and scratched to keep my little family together. I don't see why they won't give us a little something to eat."

The three girls, Elsie, 14, Louise, 15, and Rosey, 12, are neat and clean, although they have no shoes nor stockings. They say:

Neighbors Betray Slayer After Row

CLEVELAND, Aug. 17.—(INS.)—Ten years after he escaped from Fulton, (Mo.) State Hospital for the Criminal Insane, John Dragon, 53, a convicted murderer, today awaited to be returned to the institution because he argued with his neighbors. Police declared that neighbors had notified them that Dragon was an escaped murderer after they had quarreled with him.

According to police records, Dragon murdered his sweetheart and was sentenced to life imprisonment.

Man Stabs Woman 10 Times in Fight

Stabbed 10 times in a fight in her home last night, Nettie Casey, 31, a Negro woman of 1424 Bidwell street, was reported in a serious condition in Presbyterian Hospital today. Her assailant, a Negro, escaped.

WORKERS IN ALL PARISHES AID FIRE FUND

Stores Join in Campaign To Raise $300,000; Mass Meeting Called Aug. 25

Workers in the campaign to raise $300,000 to rebuild the Little Sisters of the Poor Home for the Aged, destroyed by fire July 24 with a loss of 48 lives, today were compiling the results of their first day's canvass. Indications were that the drive would go over the top, leaders said.

An average of 100 solicitors from each of the 350 parishes of the Catholic diocese of Pittsburgh began their rounds yesterday. When the campaign was officially opened the drive was the topic of sermons at all masses.

MASS MEETING ARRANGED

A mass meeting of workers will be held in Synod Hall, North Craig street, the night of August 25, when reports of the drive will be made. The Rt. Rev. Hugh C. Boyle, bishop of the diocese, will preside.

Donahoe's two downtown stores at 245 Fifth avenue, and Smithfield and Diamond streets, will give a percentage of their sales to the campaign this week. It is expected that at least $10,000 will be added in this manner.

DUNN MAKES APPEAL

An appeal to citizens to aid in the campaign was made by Thomas A. Dunn, president of the Chamber of Commerce. He said:

"I have many personal recollections of exceptionally fine acts of kindness and charity by the Little Sisters in the last 40 years, and hundreds of other Pittsburghers of all beliefs share my experience.

"The work of the Little Sisters of the Poor has extended to all creeds and sects.

"Men in all walks of life, of all faiths have banded to help raise money in this non-sectarian drive. We should be thankless, indeed, if we were to forget these Little Sisters now in their direst need."

Mother, 35, Builds Home To House Family of 10

Where there's a will there's a way, is the philosophy of Mrs. Carl J. Miller, of 2318 Westport street, Overbrook, who has several claims to fame. Although she is only 35, she is the mother of eight children, two of whom were prize-winning babies at the recent Kroger-Sun-Telegraph picnic at Kennywood.

But that is not all. At Groveton, Pa., there is a seven-room cottage and store which is known to neighbors as "the house which Mrs. Miller built." She did it with her little hammer and some nails, she said.

The cottage began with two rooms and a porch, Mrs. Miller said. When a new baby appeared in the family the porch was made into a room, and another porch built. And so on, through the years. This was Mrs. Miller's way of meeting the problem of an invalid husband and a growing family. She said:

"Nobody ever showed me how to drive a nail. I just had to learn. When we got a beam too heavy for me and the children to lift, a neighbor or a passerby always helped us. When Carl, my husband, recovered his health and was able to work, we rented our little cottage where five of my children were born, and made the down payment on this house in Overbrook."

Mrs. Miller's building instincts have manifested themselves in building a sandbox and rock garden for her children in the back yard.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Aug. 17.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Farm Board destroying every third row of cotton is the nub of a great idea. What could give more relief than extinguishing every third Senator, every third congressman, every third committee, every third stock broker, every third law. Make a third of the vice presidents of concerns go back to work. Turn the cows back into every third golf course. Convict every third gangster arrested. One third of all millionaires that issue optimistic reports from aboard yachts. Too many banks. Bump off a third. Stop up every third oil well and every third political speaker. Destroy one-half the newspaper columnists, and last, but the main thing, the matter with the whole world is there is too many people. Shoot every third one. This whole plan is inexpensive and a surefire scheme back to prosperity.

Yours, WILL.

Two boys and a Negro maid were discharged in East End Police Court today in connection with the shooting of Albert Frederick, [illegible], a roomer at 18 Orphan street, who is in the Pittsburgh hospital in a serious condition with a bullet wound in the ear. He told police he was shot by an unidentified Negro when he responded to a knock on the door. His assailant escaped.

Those discharged, rooming at the house, said they knew nothing of the shooting. They were John Spennell, 16, his brother William Spennell, 20, and Annie Smith, 32.

MANIAC VICTIM FIGHTS DEATH

The condition of Richard Richards, 9, whose head was crushed by a flatiron wielded by his father in their home, 6444 Penn avenue, early yesterday, was still regarded as critical today at Pittsburgh Hospital, where he is fighting for his life.

The father, Elmer Richards, discharged 16 years ago from a Michigan asylum where he had been confined for mental disorders, was being held in the county jail. After the insane act, Richards became remorseful, Detective Lieut. Frank Petrie said.

Pittsburgh Family Hurt in Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 17.—(AP)—James Wald, [illegible], his wife, Marie, 55, and [illegible] Marie, 25, and [illegible] of 1830 Darlington road, Pittsburgh, were injured today when their automobile collided with a truck here. They were returning from Atlantic City to their home.

Members of the Wald family were en route to their home here today, according to information received at their residence. No serious injuries were suffered, it was reported.

Man, Given Home, Held in Robbery Of Benefactor

Accused of having stolen wearing apparel from a man who had befriended him, Richard Barry, 35, was held for further investigation when arraigned in Central Police Court yesterday. Calvin D. Meise, of 3415 Forbes street, testified he gave Barry a home and cared for him for several weeks. Several days ago, Meise testified, Barry disappeared, as did two [illegible] and a suit. Later, police say, Barry admitted stealing the clothes, pawning them for $6 and using the money to buy liquor.

WILKINS PLANS TRIAL CRUISE

SPITZBERGEN, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Sir Hubert Wilkins will make a trial trip northwards in the submarine Nautilus, accompanied by a sealing vessel, before setting a date for its departure on an underwater cruise to the North Pole.

The submarine arrived yesterday from Tromsoe and docked at her base in Longyear City. Officials of the coal mines gave a dinner for members of the expedition last night and Sir Hubert plans to return their courtesy with a visit to the diggings.

Visitor Dies While Walking in Park

Hatterer and his niece were visiting at the home of the former's sister-in-law, Mrs. Hatterer, of 2108 Veteran street.

Cash Box Stolen, Then Oven Blast Wrecks Bakery

It was "Blue Monday" at the Lincoln Bakery, 6647 Frankstown avenue.

When Harry B. Schrott, one of the owners, opened the store this morning he found thieves had entered in the night and carried away a cash register.

An hour later an oven he had lighted some time previously exploded, partially wrecking the mixing room. He estimated damage at $200.

SNAKE VICTIM RECOVERING

BIG SANDY, Tenn., Aug. 17.—(AP)—Maintaining her opposition to medical treatment, Mrs. Lois Guire, Middle Tennessee evangelist, today apparently was making progress towards recovery from a rattlesnake bite.

"Sister Smothers," as she is called, said she had "talked with God in an unknown tongue," and she continued her prayers in an effort to regain strength to resume revival services here.

The evangelist was bitten by the snake last Wednesday.

She previously had boasted, because of her faith, no snake would bite her. A member of the congregation brought one to Wednesday's services in a box and handed it to her. She waved the reptile aloft and defied it to bite her. As she was putting it back in the box the snake bit her.

NEVER DRY · NEVER DUSTY · NEVER PARCHED

—they're FRESH!

If you are not yet a Camel smoker you have a grand treat in store when first you enjoy the benefits of the Humidor Pack.

The three things in a cigarette that can make it sting the tongue and unkindly burn the throat are safely eliminated from Camels.

There are no harsh parched-dry tobaccos—the fine Turkish and mild Domestic tobaccos of which Camels are blended require no over-heating to make them palatable.

There is no peppery dust to irritate the throat—that's whisked away by a special vacuum-cleaning process.

There is no staleness nor loss of fragrance—made fine, Camels are kept fine, wherever you buy them, thanks to the Humidor Pack.

This scientific germ-safe wrapping—not plain ordinary Cellophane, but moisture-proof Cellophane which costs nearly twice as much—seals in all the aroma and freshness, seals it so tightly that wet weather cannot make Camels damp, nor drought weather make them dry.

If you want to know what that means in throat-friendliness and smoking-pleasure, try Camels for just one day, then leave them—if you can.

HARMONY LINE END MOURNED

Strings of old interurban cars linked tightly together block the rails in the Harmony Junction car houses today. Virtually all activity has ceased. The Pittsburgh, Harmony and Butler interurban line has shut down for good.

The "bummer" pulled in early yesterday morning with Ed F. Shaffer, conductor, and H. M. Mohney, motorman, guiding it from Pittsburgh to Butler.

Today Shaffer, a veteran of 19 years' service, laid his uniform away for good. Mohney, after 16 years, turned in his control handle. Both, with 30 other trainmen and many other employes, started out to get new jobs.

Not only the men but the passengers who rode the last car felt the passing of the interurban, abandoned by a Federal Court order after the road had been run six months in receivership.

One woman said:

"The cars cost my two boys 56 cents a day; the buses $1.40. They go to school in Pittsburgh, and I have to pay, that's all."

Dr. Holland's executive obligations never retarded his constant studies of butterflies and moths. His own collection, the finest private one in North America, is now deposited in Carnegie Museum. He has published over 130 titles on butterflies, and is regarded as the greatest living authority on this subject.

As an avocation Dr. Holland has painted since childhood. He has won honors in this medium at professional art exhibitions.

One of the most important activities of his entire career was to promote and secure action on the report of the Pittsburgh Filtration Commission. He said:

"If I had done nothing else in my life than help to eliminate typhoid fever from this community, I should be happy."

Only those fortunate enough to know Dr. Holland may in any degree comprehend the range of his mind.

He has never allowed a life crowded with official duties to prohibit his scientific studies, yet he has never been too busy to be human.

Two men were injured when a machine in which they were riding overturned after crashing into a telephone pole on the Mt. Royal boulevard early yesterday. The accident occurred, police said, when W. H. Best, 20, of 5221 Duncan street, driver, lost control and crashed into the pole, snapping it off a few feet above the ground. Gobs Are Sunk As Navy Takes Montauk Point

—By Arthur (Bugs) Baer—

Did or did not our fleet visit Montauk to boost real estate values?

Mixing with society was fine for the tattooed gobs. Some of the ancient dowagers wanted to sit up all night and look at the pictures.

Taxicabs cost the enlisted men $6 a trip. And if you don't think that's a week's pay in the Navy then you can slap our face and reduce our alimony.

Single rooms at the swankola hotels cost from $10 to $20 a night. Just the right rate for a gob who carries navy beans in his money pocket so he will have something to jingle.

Looks like the fleet's visit to Montauk was not a social success. Not since a handsome sailor told a chaperon that his father owned the Navy.

Montauk hasn't yet recovered from its first dance. Navy style. You wear shin guards, clutch-as-clutch-can, and when the band strikes up its every man for himself.

Most Popular Boxer
He's Jimmy McLarnin.
Meets Petrolle Again.
Watch Western Reserve
It's Building Up.
Poor Sportswomanship.

BOB PEARCE RATED GREATEST SCULLER

Jimmy McLarnin

THE MOST POPULAR [illegible] before the American public these days [illegible] is Baby Face Jim McLarnin, judging from the manner in which he packs [illegible] everywhere he appears.

McLarnin has had his ups and downs, but mostly ups, and the fans like his boxing style and hefty punch.

Jimmy's next start will be against Billy Petrolle, the Fargo Express, at the Yankee Stadium, New York, next Thursday night and despite the fact that Petrolle handed him a shellacking in their first meeting in November, Baby Face will enter the ring the favorite to win. McLarnin outpointed Billy in a return bout last May. They say the way to beat McLarnin is to shower him with left hooks. Petrolle is a master at this art, although his best bet is a straight right cross to the head. Both are murderous punchers for men of their poundage and the bout gives promise of being a real thriller.

PETROLLE [illegible] is a favorite with the New York fans. In addition to beating McLarnin he has knocked out [illegible], King Tut and [illegible] Suarez in bouts in the big town. Suarez was his most recent victim there and he knocked the South American out of the lightweight picture.

BILLY BY THE way is a Pennsylvanian by birth. He first saw the light of day in Berwick, Pa., near Philadelphia, and was reared and received his public school education in Schenectady, N. Y., but it was not until his folks moved to Fargo, N. D., that he began boxing. He is married and now makes his home in Duluth. His real name is Billy and not William, his christening papers reveal. He is one of three brothers who have appeared in the ring, the others being Frankie and Pete. Another brother, Michael, who died in an accident a year ago, was the only one of the Petrolle boys who did not take to boxing. He also has a sister living in Schenectady.

PROBABLY THE MOST underrated fighter in the ring is Battling Battalino, the featherweight champion. Everybody says he can't fight and is a cheese champion, but did you notice that he almost always wins and has held onto that title for a long time?

KEEP A WEATHER eye on the doings of the Western Reserve University football team of Cleveland this fall. Western Reserve is going places now that Karl E. Davis, former graduate athletic manager of the University of Pittsburgh, has been placed in complete charge of its athletic program, with Gordon Locke, former head football coach and athletic director, returning to Iowa.

To start the ball rolling Davis has reorganized the entire coaching personnel. His first step was to engage Tom Keady, former Lehigh, Quantico Marines and Vermont mentor, as head football coach. Then he signed John [illegible], Carnegie Tech captain the last two seasons, as line coach, and now he has rounded out the corps with Ed (Jiggs) Donahue. Was there ever a Donahue in sports who wasn't nicknamed Jiggs?

K. E. Davis

DONAHUE WILL SERVE as backfield coach. He is a former Washington & Lee football, baseball and basketball star who has served 16 years as a coach. The eleven that he captained went through the season undefeated and was rated the southern champion. He prepped at Mercersburg Academy.

Donahue during his coaching career served eight years at St. John's Prep School, where he had a record of 46 victories, four ties and only eight defeats, playing such teams as the Yale freshmen, Harvard's seconds, Dean Academy and other strong New England outfits. He began to coach as an assistant at W. & L. and then was head coach at Clemson College in the South for four years, during which time his elevens defeated Georgia, Auburn and Tennessee among others, and held the Georgia Tech team, which included such outstanding stars as Fincher, Guyon and Harlan, to a 7-0 score.

RESERVE OPENS ITS season against Purdue and then plays Bowling Green, after which it comes to Pittsburgh to battle Pitt at the Stadium. Other games are with Hiram, Oberlin, Syracuse, Case and Ohio Wesleyan, in that order. The Wildcats, who have been easy pickings for Pitt and Carnegie Tech heretofore, promise under the new regime to perk up and prove keen opposition. They may not accomplish wonders during the first year, but should be heard from with such a stellar coaching staff to mould the eleven.

Vignettes of Sport

TOM CURRAN, star oarsman of the University of Pennsylvania and Penn A. C., will be a candidate for the Penn football eleven this fall . . . He stands 6 feet 1 inch in his socks and weighs 180 pounds . . . Temple University of Philadelphia goes all of the way to Denver next November to play the University of Denver in the first game of a home-and-home series, the second contest being scheduled for Philadelphia next year . . . Fred Perry, the 22-year-old British tennis star, denies a report that he is a former star ping-pong player and used that sport to build up to a career as an ace internationalist of the courts.

DOESN'T IT STRIKE you that a bit of poor sportswomanship was perpetrated by Joan Ridley and Mrs. J. E. Pittman, the English stars, when they refused to finish out their final round match in the eastern turf championship tournament at Rye after each had won a set in their contest? . . . Plans are fairly well advanced for that benefit boxing show they are plotting for Black Bill, the Cuban Negro flyweight, who has gone blind . . . It will be held in New York and star boxers will participate . . . Local fans remember the colorful little black man for his two bouts with Willie Davies at the Meyers Bowl last season . . . The latest Mexican fighter to command attention is one Joe Estrada, a reigning sensation in New Orleans rings . . . Down there they mention this lightweight in the same category with Aurelia Herrera, Joe Rivers, Tony Herrera and other Mexicans who have made the grade in the resined square.

LOCAL HORSE RACING enthusiasts are taking a hitch in their belts for the two weeks' meeting to be staged at Wheeling, W. Va., beginning August 27 . . . Leu Smith will be in charge . . . He has put on successful meetings at St. John's, Fla., Blue Bonnets, Kings Park, Mt. Royal and Rockingham . . . A meeting also opens at Cumberland, Md., Tuesday of next week . . . The word is out that there will be no horse racing or even dog racing in Pennsylvania so long as Gov. Pinchot is on the job, and the promoters have given up the ghost, although there had been a well organized movement to bring back the horses at New Kensington, following the successful dog racing meets of last year there.

Jim Rice

JIM RICE, veteran rowing coach, is of the belief that Bob Pearce, the best single sculler of the day, has a chance of becoming the greatest oarsman of all time, even outranking Ned Hanlan, who is recognized by leading authorities as the greatest oarsman so far produced . . . Pearce is not yet 26 years old and at 195 pounds is 45 pounds heavier than Hanlan and according to Rice he has the same stroke and style that made Hanlan world famous in his time.

FRENCH, BRAME TO HURL FOR CORSAIRS

By CHARLES J. DOYLE
Staff Correspondent

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 17.—There was little said about baseball by the Pirates this morning as they set themselves for another doubleheader in the [illegible] Baker Bowl. The terrible ball park was like a marsh Saturday and the two defeats sustained by the Buccos left them in anything but an amiable mood.

Skipper Ens will use Larry French and Erv Brame on the mound this afternoon. The Phils' [illegible] will be opposed by [illegible] and Phil Collins.

PIET AT SECOND

Tony Piet probably will continue at second base in the Pittsburgh lineup. The Polish recruit from Wichita played fine baseball despite the mud and water of Saturday.

Meantime Howdie Groskloss is nursing his injured knee by taking daily treatments. The collegian may be ready to play in a few days but he may find it hard to get back into action now that Tony is on the job.

The Buccos are slated to play their last game of the season in Philadelphia tomorrow afternoon. They then will head for Boston.

The home of the Quakers surely was a slough of despond for the bold Buccos who had strong visions of a first-division berth even after they had lost the rubber tilt of a five-game series with the Giants.

"We were going along fairly well till we hit that awful park," said Manager Ens in commenting on the plight of the Buccos after Saturday's doubleheader.

Ens, by the way, was opposed to playing the two games and he had at least two fine reasons for his convictions.

ENS' PROTEST FAILS

"That ground is not fit for baseball today," declared the Pittsburgh pilot while the groundkeepers were attempting to get some of the mud off the field. "It would be a better thing for us if the games were transferred to Pittsburgh," continued Ens. "We like to take on the Phillies in our big park, but the fierce conditions here make it tough for any team to win even when the soil is dry."

But Ens had nothing to say about the matter, the authority resting entirely with the home officials so far as the question of starting play was concerned.

To add to the hippodrome conditions the infield was torn up terribly by the ring and spectators that sat on the scene on the previous night. There are thousands of people there who still believe wrestling is on the level and the bigger the travesty the louder the cheer. Well, anyhow, the doubleheader was pretty much of a joke but that condition appears to be the procedure at the Phillies Park even under normal conditions.

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF LAST SATURDAY. THE LAST MILE—Being married on Monday, jailed on Tuesday, bonded on Wednesday, indicted on Thursday, dead on Friday and buried on Saturday was the luck of Alfred Tamborine, as recorded in Tuscumbia, Ala., May, 1930. This eventful stretch of biography was revealed in the records of Circuit Court when an indictment against Tamborine was stricken from the docket. The indictment was returned by the grand jury, but before the papers could be served he was seized with sudden illness and died, being buried the next afternoon.

RIVALS CLASH AGAIN IN BOWL RING

TONIGHT'S FIGHTS

Buck McTiernan vs. Jimmy Belmont, 10 rounds; Tiger Joe West vs. Harry Harris, 8 rounds, and Matty Oldach vs. Joey Spiegel and [illegible] vs. [illegible], 6 rounds each, Meyers Bowl, North Braddock.

[illegible] vs. [illegible], 10 rounds, St. Louis.

Another chapter in the rivalry between Buck McTiernan of Swissvale and Jimmy Belmont of Braddock is to be written tonight in the Meyers Bowl, North Braddock.

The old deadly enemies of the ring who first met as amateurs several years ago with each winning one fight, Belmont taking his victory on a foul when he was struck while down, will be clashing for the second time as pros. Their first such meeting occurred in the Bowl ring several weeks ago when Belmont, on the short end for three rounds, suddenly turned the tables with a knockout victory in the fourth, the result of a left hook to the jaw that dropped his foe flat on his face for the count.

Buck McTiernan

After that victory Belmont said he always knew he could beat McTiernan. McTiernan said the finishing punch was a "sleeper" or fluke. The fans wanted them rematched and the Bowl wound up with another "natural."

Jimmy Belmont

The battle took a lot of the deep-seated hatred out of the relations of the rivals and their managers, Bunny Buntach for McTiernan, and Frank Klaus, former middleweight champion, for Belmont. So electric was the air over that fateful bout that both boxers were taken out of town to escape the excitement just prior to ringtime, and when they met to be weighed the attendants of both became embroiled in a bitter controversy at the scales. This feeling has subsided and both men will go more rationally to the post tonight but, with each just as keen for victory on this occasion, another stirring battle is in prospect.

McTIERNAN TO BOX

It is expected that this time McTiernan, with Luke Carney, his trainer, back in his corner, will box along safer lines and will not run the risk he did the last time out. Belmont, with his knowledge that one good blow was sufficient on the former occasion, likely will sail in and level away with his best punches in the hope of repeating. All the club needs is a good night to be assured of a banner turnout of fans.

Tiger Joe West of Brookline and Harry Harris of Bellaire, O. (Gene Tunney's "double"), mix again in the eight-round semi-final, Harris' first appearance here in many moons. Joey Spiegel, of Uniontown, and Matty Oldach, of

BROIDA PAIRED WITH RAE

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

DETROIT, Aug. 17.—Frank Broida, Pittsburgh representative through the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph in the National Public Parks tennis championships, has been drawn against Murray Rae of Niagara, N. Y., in the initial round of men's singles play.

Miss Jean Aitzberger, Pittsburgh feminine star, landed a bye through round one of the women's singles. She encounters the defending champion, Virginia Dueker, of St. Louis in a second round match tentatively scheduled for this afternoon.

Successor to Bentley To Be Named Today

YORK, Pa., Aug. 17 (AP).—D. F. Stetler, president of the York baseball club, announced late last night that a present member of the team would be appointed today to succeed John Needles (Jack) Bentley, former major league hurler, who resigned as manager yesterday morning. Four former managers, Johnny Tillman, Don [illegible], Earl Coombe and Buck Elliott, are included among the York players and it is likely that one of them or Frank Uzmann, catcher, who with Elliott had charge of yesterday's game with Wilkes-Barre, will be appointed.

Hurlingham Polo Four Blanks Army

MITCHEL FIELD, N. Y., Aug. 17 (AP).—The 31-goal Hurlingham Club polo team of Buenos Aires, the second of the Argentine invaders here in quest of the American open championship, opened its Long Island campaign yesterday by defeating the United States Army 12 goals to 0, in an informal test.

HOTSY TOTSY KEEPS CUP

MONTAUK, N. Y., Aug. 17 (AP).—Bounding over the waters of Lake Montauk at a record-breaking speed, Hotsy Totsy, the slim trim queen of the speedboats, successfully defended the classic Gold Cup yesterday against a fleet of rivals.

As six of her seven rivals became disabled at one stage or another of the 90-mile race, run off in three 30-mile heats, Hotsy Totsy went the full route under the skillful handling of Victor W. Kleisrath of Port Washington, N. Y., and South Bend, Ind., and set a new Gold Cup speed record for the full race of 53.6 miles per hour.

Eight expensive speedboats started the race, but the only one outside of the champion to last the full route was Miss Philadelphia, owned by John D. Shibe and driven by Billy Freitag.

Six boats survived the first heat but only three were still in motion at the end of each of the last two heats.

Hotsy Totsy finished with the winning total of 1,161 points. Miss Philadelphia was runner-up with 1,122 points. Third place went to Californian, owned and driven by Richard F. Loynes of Long Beach, Cal., with 648 points, and Scotty Too wound up fourth with 613 points.

Ohio Pair Wins Pro-Amateur Play

WHEELING, W. Va., Aug. 17 (AP).—Professional Al Marchi and Paul Dye, both of Urbana, O., were the winners yesterday in the second annual pro-amateur golf tournament at the Cedar Rocks Country Club here. Their score was 74.

Stagg Celebrates Sixty-Ninth Birthday

CHICAGO, Aug. 17 (AP).—Amos Alonzo Stagg, who starts his fortieth year as football coach at the University of Chicago next month, celebrated his sixty-ninth birthday anniversary quietly at home yesterday, receiving visitors and reading congratulatory telegrams.

"The grand old man of the Midway" had decreed there should be no formal celebration as he had "a few jobs about the house" he wanted to do. But he had hardly finished helping Mrs. Stagg with the dishes when the callers began arriving.

"So many people came," he said, "that I had to stop working. I'll probably have to spend the next several days answering letters and telegrams, too. Now I don't know when I can get the rest of the work done."

Stagg said he had not considered retirement.

PERRY ANNEXES NET CROWN

RYE, N. Y., Aug. 17 (AP).—Frederick J. Perry, British Davis Cup singles star, romped through to an easy victory over J. Gilbert Hall, South Orange, N. J., veteran, in the final round of the Eastern turf court tennis championships yesterday.

Perry, who came over here principally to bid for the United States singles championship, disposed of Hall in straight sets at 6-3, 6-2, 6-4.

Keeping up the fine team play which has marked their game all season, Keith Gledhill of Santa Barbara, Cal., and Ellsworth Vines, Jr., of Pasadena, Cal., carried off the doubles title by defeating the Wimbledon champions, George Lott and John Van Ryn, of Philadelphia, 4-6, 6-3, 6-3, 11-9.

TECH NET PLAY OPENS TODAY

By JESS CARVER

A right formidable field of local tennis players will take part in the annual tournament of the Carnegie Tech Tennis Club which gets under way today on the Carnegie Tech courts.

The entry list was closed Saturday night, at which time the draw for the first round was announced. Among the more prominent entrants are Russ Kambach, No. 1 varsity performer at Tech; Ben Bloom, of Pitt; Bradford Booth, former Allegheny star; Austin Famariss, Billy Creighton, Jimmy Hagan, assistant to Athletic Director Harrison at Pitt, and Harry Wald, former Schenley High star, runner-up in the recent Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph public parks tournament.

Play will continue throughout the week, with the final slated for Saturday afternoon.

Time Out

If Eddie Baker, who captained the Pitt varsity football team last year and co-captained the basketballers, didn't have another year in dental school and wasn't a member of the Pitt coaching staff, he could spend the rest of the season with the Chicago Cubs.

Manager Rogers Hornsby of the Bruins wired Eddie recently, requesting that he join the Cubs on their return home from the present eastern trip and sign a contract. Baker worked out with the Giants when McGraw had his club here a week or two ago, but the Giants figured they could get along without the services of a quarterback and did not sign the Pitt star.

Baker will turn down the Cub offer, because he has to go to football camp with Pitt and because he has to put in another year learning how to jerk molars.

The Wallace Wade-Cam Henderson football coaching school opens at Bluefield, W. Va., today. Wade, former coach at Alabama, takes over the reigns at Duke University this year. Henderson is the astute pilot at Davis-Elkins.

HINES WINS TIT'E

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Aug. 17 (AP).—Wilmer Hines, Columbia, S. C., won the Alabama singles championship here yesterday from Mel [illegible], Tampa, Fla., 6-1, 6-3, 6-4. In the third set Hines won five straight games after trailing 1-4.

Says Nick Altrock

(Baseball's Comedian)

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 17.—The wise eggs all say Connie Mack won't have to break up his Athletics because age will do it for him. All I can say is it's going to be pretty monotonous for the rest of the league waiting for Grove, Earnshaw, Simmons and Cochrane to grow old and gray. Well, the Cards and A's now have nice leads and all they got to do is just keep tree-sitting till October 1.

Nick Altrock

Next to King Alfonso the saddest thing that's happened to royalty this season is Hack Wilson, the Home Run King, going from the throne to the bench. But the way things are breaking lately I suppose he should be glad he's even got a place to sit down.

WALKER CAPTURES FIFTH IN ROW FOR GIANTS

Women's City Golf Championship Play Gets Under Way at Schenley

SOUTHPAW ACE STOPS CARDS: A'S WIN

Associated Press

If the New York Giants had an entire pitching staff of men as successful as Southpaw William Walker they might now hold the place of the St. Louis Cardinals at the top of the National League standing instead of being virtually tied with the Chicago Cubs 6½ games behind the Cards and one slim point ahead of Chicago.

Walker, the leading Giant pitcher, has won his last five starts and in two games against the Cardinals has left the league champions and prospective pennant winners down with four hits. He turned in a second two-hit game against St. Louis in the first half of yesterday's doubleheader to win by a 7-to-1 count after beating them 4-0 July 15.

HUBBELL LOSES

Carl Hubbell, Walker's equally left-handed running mate, was not so successful in the second half of the doubleheader. He gave the Cards a run in the first inning and the Giants never overcame that margin against Flint Rhem's fine mound work. They scored twice after an injury forced Rhem out, but Frank Frisch clouted a homer with one aboard in the eighth to provide the margin of victory in the Cards' 4-2 triumph.

Meanwhile Chicago Cubs took two games from the Boston Braves by scores of 7-1 and 5-1 to regain some of the ground they had lost in the race for second place.

The Brooklyn Robins completed the National League program by winning their first doubleheader since they took the July 4 bill from the Giants. The victims were the Cincinnati Reds and the scores were 5 to 2 and 8 to 7.

Pittsburgh and Philadelphia had an off day.

Except in the Boston-Chicago double bill expert pitching had little to do with yesterday's American League program. Washington's Senators scored the day's big triumph by downing the St. Louis Browns in both ends of a doubleheader, 5-3 and 8-6.

BABE HITS NO. 33

Babe Ruth's thirty-third home run, which gave him the major league lead, one up on Lou Gehrig, was the big clout of the New York Yankees 9 to 6 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

The Philadelphia Athletics got the benefit of two homers, one by Cochrane and one by Cramer in defeating Cleveland 6 to 4 as the three-man pitching combination of Mahaffey, Hoyt and Walberg limited the Indians to seven hits.

Chicago and Boston each displayed one good pitching performance and divided their double header. Tommy Thomas held the Red Sox to six hits to win the first clash 9 to 2 while Eddie Durham had the better of the second argument with Vic Frasier, allowing five hits to win 5-1.

BOXING RIVALS CLASH AGAIN

Erie are in a return bout in the second number and Marion Condi of Dayton, O., and Joey Bazzone of McKeesport open the show at 8:45.

MILLVALE SIGNS LYDAY

The Hickey Park management is working on its preliminary card for its Ted Yarosz-Tiger Joe Randall fourth meeting next Thursday night. Incidentally, Red Lyday, hard-hitting middleweight, of Columbus, O., has been signed to make his local debut there in the eight-round semi-final Thursday night of next week against Joe Zemon, of Cleveland. Young Rudy and Freddie Edwards are the semi-finalists this week.—HARRY KECK.

Browns May Bench Levey, Local Boy

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Tom Jenkins, whose last trip to the plate as a pinch hitter resulted in a home run scoring three runs, has been sent to the Milwaukee Brewers of the American Association by the St. Louis Browns in exchange for Jack Kolza, Brewer outfielder. Jenkins, used almost exclusively as a pinch batsman, had an average of .270, while Kolza comes with a .308 average in the Association.

Kolza will play rightfield in tomorrow's game for the Browns, the shift probably sending Kress to short and Levey to the bench.

PHILS BEAT CAMDEN

CAMDEN, N. J., Aug. 17.—(AP)—The Philadelphia National League club defeated the Camden semi-pro outfit yesterday, 3 to 1. The score by innings:

CARDS SIGN GLASGOW

CHICAGO, Aug. 17.—(AP.)—Bill Glasgow, who starred in the backfield at Iowa for three years before playing professional football last year with the Portsmouth (O.) team of the National League, has been signed by the Chicago Cardinals, Dr. David Jones, owner of the Chicago eleven, announced today.

LOCAL PRINTERS PLAY TODAY

HAMILTON, Ont., Aug. 17.—The Pittsburgh Union Printers baseball team will meet the Baltimore Union Printers in a first-round game in the Union Printers' annual tournament which gets under way here this afternoon.

Baltimore is a new entry in the tournament. Other first-round games find New York paired with Hamilton-Toronto, Detroit paired with Cincinnati, Indianapolis paired with Boston, Washington paired with St. Paul and Chicago, last year's champion, paired with St. Louis. For the first time in the history of the event Cleveland is not represented.

Four members of the Pittsburgh nine figured in an automobile mishap at Titusville Saturday. They were Pitcher Paul Gildernew, Second Baseman Skeets Nelligan, captain and manager of the team, Outfielder Billy Loughner and Red Kiley. Loughner was the most seriously hurt, injuring his back. He was taken to the Titusville hospital, but is expected to rejoin his mates in a few days. The others suffered minor bruises and were able to continue their trip.

GRID STAR INJURED

Football Stadia Taxation Is Urged

"A stadium like the Yale Bowl or the one recently erected at South Bend (Notre Dame)," he declares in his annual report published today, "is used merely for public show. Will not the various states insist (and rightly so) upon taxing money-earning agencies of this description? An agency that takes in $400,000 at a single show is in no position to ask for the exemption of this money-earner from taxation.

"The boys who are summoned to the football colors at the end of August are called to no boys' game. They are to be drilled under professional trainers for a gruelling contest for which the public will pay handsomely. The exploitation of the student, his diversion from genuine college study and social life, his service under professional trainers, all are in preparation for a commercial show before the public."

The crucial test for the Book nine will come this evening at Olympia Park when the Homewood club clashes with the Books in the feature game of the City League.

Books are staging a hectic struggle with Dormont for second half honors and seeing that Thomas defeated the Olympia Park boys last week another setback from Homewood this evening will be fatal. Homewood can be expected to shoot the works. The East Enders have been counted out of the race and now will take a keen delight in walloping both the leaders.

CIVICS FACE THOMAS

The other game in the loop finds the North Side Civics making the trip to Bloomfield to hook up with J. L. Thomas. While no championship battle is on tap, the fans will see a hard fought game.

Plenty of real action marks the West Penn League games this evening. A local fight will be carded at Swissvale when the Community Builders of Turtle Creek meet Ad Walsh and his Swissvale Community club. Down at Magee Field the Homestead Aces will be fighting for a place among the leaders when they meet St. Joachims.

Reliance will be faced with a stiff battle this evening at Camp Horne in the feature game of the Commercial and Industrial loop.

OWSTON TO HURL

Bobby Owston probably will try his luck again after being beaten twice by Reliance this season. Bill Gormley will decorate the mound for Reliance.

With all of the leaders in the City League coming together this week, there is more than a chance that the race may be settled when Sunday rolls around.

With a good sized crowd on hand, the J. L. Thomas nine defeated the North Side Civics in a game played at Sullivan Field yesterday for the benefit of the Little Sisters of the Poor fund. The score was 8 to 2.

At Washington, D. C., the Homestead Grays opened their series with the Baltimore Black Sox, winning 7 to 5. Charleston led the 10-hit attack of the Grays with three safe blows, including a triple.

TRACK TO AID UNEMPLOYED

CHICAGO, Aug. 17.—(AP.)—The Chicago Business Men's Racing Association which operates the Hawthorne track, has joined the White Sox and Cubs in the movement to aid Illinois' unemployed.

John Schank, president of the racing group, has announced that a plan will be worked out to contribute $25,000 or more to Gov. Emmerson's fund for the unemployed, and it is expected that Chicago's other tracks will join in.

The Cubs and White Sox will play a charity game September 9 with the total receipts which are expected to reach $50,000, going into the Governor's fund.

A. A. Umpire Charged With Assault By Fan

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 17.—(AP.)—George K. Pinkerton, 25, filed a warrant last night charged assault and battery against Larry Goetz, who umpired yesterday's American Association games between Columbus and Kansas City.

Pinkerton told police that he knew no reason why Goetz should attack him but exhibited cuts and bruises, saying the umpire had knocked him down three times and kicked him following the games.

Fans threw pop bottles at Goetz when they became dissatisfied with a decision. He chased Leibold and his assistant Fred Hunter, of Columbus, from the park for protesting his decisions.

FRED FRAME VICTOR

WOODBRIDGE, N. J., Aug. 17.—(AP.)—Fred Frame, of Los Angeles, won the 25-mile Eastern States Automobile Handicap race at the Woodbridge Speedway yesterday in 19 minutes 50 2-5 seconds. Billy Winn, of Atlanta, was second and Bob Sall, Ridgewood, N. J., third.

SCOTTIES GAIN M.-A. LEAD

Scottdale capped a great drive which has extended over the past three weeks yesterday by gaining first place in the Middle Atlantic League's second half race. The Scotties nosed out Johnstown 8-7, sending the Johnnies into second position.

Clarksburg also continued to hammer along, defeating Beaver Falls in both ends of a doubleheader 6-3 and 7-5.

Cumberland twice topped Charleroi, the Colts winning the first game 5-0 behind the six-hit pitching of Salamone, and taking the second 6-3.

Beckley defeated Youngstown 5-3, Huntington downed Charleston, 7-4, and Wheeling trimmed Fairmont 4-1, Query limiting the Black Diamonds to three safe hits.

He was born in Sydney, Australia, and started out to be a boxer with Young Griffo and Les Darcy as his idols and carries a medal presented him by the late lamented Darcy . . . He is a powerful rower, but it is said he rows with less expenditure of energy than any other sculler in the sport.

STRONG FIELD SEEKS WOMEN'S NET TITLE

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 17.—(AP.)—An international field of 64 headed by the defending titleholder Betty Nuthall of England and the outstanding favorite Mrs. Helen Wills Moody of San Francisco, begins play in the women's national tennis championships in the West Side Stadium today.

Mrs. Moody did not compete in the championship last year and Miss Nuthall won the coveted crown by beating Mrs. Lawrence A. Harper of Oakland, Cal., in the final round.

But Queen Helen is back on the courts again bidding for a title she already has won six times since 1923. She captured the championship three years in a row from 1923 to 1925, did not compete in 1926 when Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory was the winner and then chalked up three more titles in succession from 1927 to 1929.

In addition to Miss Nuthall and Miss Mudford, Great Britain will be represented by Miss Eileen Bennett Whittingstall, Mrs. Dorothy C. Shepherd-Barron, Dorothy Round, Joan Ridley and Mrs. Elsie Goldsack Pittman.

Mrs. Moody and Mrs. Jacobs head a formidable American field that includes Mrs. Harper, the No. 1 ranking player; Mrs. Marion Zinderstein Jessup, Wilmington, Del.; Marjorie Morrill, Dedham, Mass.; Mrs. John Van Ryn, of Philadelphia; Dorothy Weisel, Sacramento, Cal.; Josephine Cruickshank, Santa Ana, Cal.; Baroness Giacomo Levi, of New York; Mary Greef, Kansas City; Sarah Palfrey, Boston; Dorothy Andrus, Stamford, Conn.; Virginia Hilleary, Philadelphia, and Mae Ceuvorst, Wichita, Kan.

British Yacht Owner Drowned in Race

PLYMOUTH, England, Aug. 17.—(AP.)—The first fatality in the famous Cowes-Fastnet-Plymouth yacht race was reported yesterday in a radiogram from the trawler Dunraven Castle which stated that Col. C. Hudson, owner of the British yacht Maintenes II, had been washed overboard and lost somewhere near the south coast of Ireland.

The trawler picked up the crew of the Maintenes and the yacht itself was abandoned. No further details were given.

MRS. VARE WINS

WESTPORT, N. Y., Aug. 17.—(AP.)—Mrs. E. H. Vare, Jr., the former Glenna Collett, playing her usual consistent golf yesterday, defeated Miss Frances [illegible] 6 to 4 in the semi-final round of the [illegible] cup trophy at the Westport Club. Mrs. Vare will meet a neighbor from Philadelphia in the final round today, Miss Frances Williams.

PROS, AMATEURS BATTLE AT SHANNOPIN

By VERN SWARTSFAGER

Three golf events of more than ordinary consequence are being played on local links today.

Almost 400 Shriners were booked to play in the first annual tourney for members of Syria Temple, at the Alcoma Country Club, from early morn until late this evening.

MRS. BLAIR CHAMPION

Mrs. Eva Blair was on hand to defend her women's city crown in the eighth annual tourney for the John Jay Burke trophy.

Twenty-five women teed off in the qualifying test, of whom 21 were public links players. Mrs. Boris Rubinoff, of Youghiogheny; Mrs. J. S. Haller and Mrs. S. Worton, of St. Clair, and Mrs. O. L. Long, of Stanton Heights accepted the invitation extended to private club stars to compete in the event.

James W. Barber, of Chartiers Heights, treasurer of the West Penn Golf Association and recorder for Syria Temple, announced that President Tom Nichols, of Alcoma, had everything shipshape for the biggest one-day tourney ever held by the Shriners, and one of the largest ever put on by Alcoma. George Underwood, Alcoma pro, took time out to play with Dr. McDiarmid, club champion, in the Shannopin event, but was expected to give a hand in the big feed slated for tonight. Meantime, his brother, Art Underwood and Caddiemaster Jimmy Bruno were handling the starting.

Terry Del Vecchio, pro, and L. O. Heller, amateur champ, of Greensburg, will defend their laurels at Shannopin. Eddie Towns, former local pro, will be the starter and the W. P. G. A. will conduct play.

WOMEN CARD EVENTS

Tomorrow the women's city championship will continue with the second round of the qualifying test.

The Wildwood Country Club will be the scene of two tourneys during the next two days. Tomorrow the Women's Golf Association of Western Pennsylvania holds a one-day affair there, and on Wednesday a large field is anticipated for the one-day tourney of the Pennsylvania Golf Association. Entries and applications for handicap cards may yet be made to the Pennsylvania Golf Association at 1101 Farmers Bank Building, or by calling Atlantic 0519.

JOE E. BROWN has decided to whistle to his wire-haired terrier Cocker in Hollywood over KDKA at 11:15 tonight at a price we are all allowed to guess at, but it isn't the $500 that stood in his way Friday night . . . there was a disagreement somewhere . . . For close harmony try Al and Pete on WCAE at 10:45 . . . Morton Downey has acceded to his public and presents for the first time this evening, WJAS at 7:45, the much requested Rasbach arrangement of Joyce Kilmer's poem "Trees" . . . ever hear Dick Powell sing it? . . . There's a real novelty on WJAS at 8:30 . . . some one to sing "Peanut Vendor" in Yiddish . . . We welcome Lois Bennett's appearance with James Melton on WCAE at 9:30, particularly her choice of "Carissima" . . . one of her best.

Question a Day:

Do you know anything about Guy Lombardo? Mrs. Richard Sheets, Pennsylvania, Wilkinsburg.

Answer—Met him once about a year ago. Very pleasant fellow, modest and unassuming. Has a weakness for the stock market and broiled steaks. Goes for swimming, speedboating and tennis. When anyone asks Guy what kind of music he likes he answers with four names: Rachmaninoff, Herbert, Gershwin, Youmans.

THE LOUDSPEAKER

By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—The radio grand dukes seldom ask Lindbergh to talk over the radio. He has spoken a few times, but he has turned down 10 times as many requests for microphone appearances. The reason he refuses is usually because he believes he has nothing of importance or general interest to talk about.

Lindbergh

In Washington a few weeks ago a description was aired of Lindbergh's takeoff on his flight to Japan. By preliminary arrangement the Colonel had consented to a broadcast of the start of the trip. But he stipulated that there would be no speech-making on his part.

* * *

Herluf Provensen, NBC announcer, who described the start of the air journey, found it necessary to contact Lindbergh six or seven times at the Naval Air Station. There was considerable uncertainty about the exact time of the colonel's departure. And it was essential that Provensen notify the New York studios at least 10 minutes in advance of the take-off. Lindbergh said to the announcer:

"I'm sorry to keep you waiting here in the hot sun, but I can't start until I am sure my radio is working 100 per cent."

* * *

There is, however, one thing that invariably annoys Lindbergh. It is an attempt to make him speak extemporaneously over the radio. He dislikes having a microphone shoved in front of him, with the request that he say a few words. He probably feels that if he does say a few words they would be meaningless.

* * *

Lindbergh is not a practiced radio speaker. His only extensive talk on the air was that which he made about a year ago over both major networks.

When he does consent to speak he shows the same colorful preparation that he gives to his flights. He arrives at the studios early, a half hour, in fact, ahead of his schedule, has a test made of his voice, asks innumerable questions of the operations in the control room concerning the distance he should be from the microphone, the quality of his voice. When the zero hour is at hand he stands at the instrument, his eyes seldom straying from his manuscript. His voice, you may recall, is rather high, follows a rather monotonously level tone.

What is not known about Lindbergh and his relation to radio is that he is an enthusiastic broadcasting fan. Most of his entertainments he derives from the loudspeakers. Radio became his refuge when he found he could not attend the theaters or the movie cathedrals without being mobbed by an army of hero-worshipers.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

As a group foreign obligations were the most active. German loans scored good gains on the early sales, but the 7s of 1949 lost their advance and the 5½s of 1965 soon dipped below Saturday's closing level.

Public utility and industrial obligations were generally steady or slightly higher.

NEW YORK, Aug. 17 (AP)—Transactions in the most active bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today were as follows (000 omitted in sales column; United States bonds in dollars and thirty-seconds of dollars):

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.

Prolonged depression breeds a demand for economically fallacious remedies, and reactionary leaders, by standing in the way of fruitful experiment, indirectly encourage the quacks.

Mr. Rukeyser

In every major depression, there has been a demand to restore buying power through the mere printing of a large amount of currency. "Coin" Harvey, as in the 90's, wants to start a new party in Arkansas to bring on the millennium through a new currency shuffle. The advocates of fiat money forget that currency is a symbol and that when we arbitrarily change its basis we threaten its social value, which depends on universal acceptability. Post-war Germany carried on the method of inflation until its currency became worthless. This had the effect of confiscating private savings, and today Germany is paying the price for the riot of inflation which culminated in 1924.

Do-nothing-ism sometimes encourages desperate and economically unsound measures. The opportunity for constructive leadership is to call in the best expert advice and to proceed accordingly. Should the President lean for advice mainly on captains of finance and trade who led the bull market parade, which brought on the necessitous deflation, or should he give heed also to the advice of scientific economists? Many competent and conservative economists have put themselves on record in favor of a substantial federal loan, the proceeds of which should be used for essential public works. It is good economics greatly to speed up public works in time of industrial lull and conversely drastically to curtail such operations in period of boom.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, has also stressed the desirability of the six-hour-day. Unquestionably, a redistribution of leisure is in order. It is socially futile to translate technological efficiency into unemployment for some and overwork for others.

PRICES SLUMP IN MARKET REACTION

Decline Sharpest Since Steel Dividend Cut; Oil Prices Firm Up

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—(AP.)—Bull leaders stepped aside at the start of the new week in the stock market and prices fell back with leaden heaviness.

After the extensive advances of last week traders were inclined to feel that the market might have to consolidate its position with a technical setback before the advance could be resumed, but with the absence of impressive signs of seasonal recovery in trade and the bad psychological effect of the Toledo bank suspensions the reaction was considerably more severe than anticipated.

Selling was fairly active for a time in the morning and numerous declines of 2 to 6 points appeared, the sharpest reaction since the response to United States Steel's dividend cut. The list turned dull around midday however, and losses were moderately reduced for a time.

Issues making extreme declines of 2 to 4 points included such stocks as United States Steel, American Telephone, American Can, Southern Pacific, New York Central, Woolworth, Sears and Electric Autolite. Case and Allied Chemical dropped 5 and 6, then recovered 2 and 3 respectively.

Despite the unsettling psychological effects of the Toledo Banking situation, the final necessity of suspension was not surprising to well-informed quarters in Wall street, where the continued delays in announcing the projected merger of the three institutions had been regarded as scarcely promising.

Oil quarters here were generally inclined to applaud the action of Gov. Sterling, of Texas, in forcibly shutting down the East Texas pool pending the putting into effect of the state's new oil conservation law. The oil shares were inclined to firm up a little in the initial trading, but the tendency was soon lost in the general decline which ensued.

Bituminous Coal Output Declines

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—Total production of soft coal during the week ended August 8 is estimated at 6,795,000 tons, according to the Bureau of Mines. This shows a decrease of 17,000 tons from the preceding week and compares with 7,839,000 tons in the corresponding week in 1930.

Production for the calendar year to August 8 amounts to 227,636,000 tons, against 273,391,000 tons in the corresponding 1930 period and 309,316,000 tons in 1929.

Mexican Claims Commission Expires

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—The special claims commission on Mexico, appointed for the purpose of settling claims of Mexican nationals against the United States and United States nationals against Mexico, expires tonight and no agreement has been reached, but negotiations are going on with a view to renewal of the life of the two commissions. The general Mexican commission expires on August 30.

St. Paul Loadings Decline Slightly

CHICAGO, Aug. 17.—Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific Railroad in the week ended August 14 handled 30,006 cars of revenue freight compared to 30,188 in the week preceding and 37,515 in the like 1930 week.

Atchison Railway, during the week of August 15, handled 32,750 revenue freight cars, compared to 30,836 in the week previous and 26,286 in the like week in 1930.

AUTOLITE CASH 'PROTECTED'

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—Electric Auto-Lite was a weak feature of the early dealings on the stock exchange today, selling off sharply on the bank failures at Toledo where the company is located. However, the stock quickly developed rallying tendencies on the realization that Electric Auto-Lite was unlikely to be affected importantly by the Toledo difficulties.

C. O. Mininger, president of Electric Auto-Lite, stated that the company's cash totals $2,000,000, compared with approximately $1,000,000 December 1 last and that only a very small percentage of these funds was in Toledo banks. He said:

"We were fully aware of the bank situation in Toledo and took proper measures to protect our funds.

"We are confident of the Toledo situation and we feel that a reorganization will be effected without delay."

CHICAGO SWITCHING RATES

The Interstate Commerce Commission has prescribed a revised basis of switching rates for the Chicago switching district, which is designed to equalize these charges as between interstate and intrastate movements of traffic. The order, which is effective November 10, next, closes a self-instituted investigation of the commission and fixes 3 cents per 100 pounds as the rates for switching services involving one-line hauls, 3½ cents for two-line hauls and 4 cents for three or more line hauls based on a carload minimum of 60,000 pounds.

CONTINENTAL MOTORS

Continental Motors Corporation will concentrate manufacturing operations at its Muskegon (Mich.) plant as a temporary measure to effect economies while schedules remain below normal, W. R. Angell, president, said. General offices, engineering, tool room and aircraft engine departments will remain at the Detroit plant.

LOCAL STOCKS OPEN WEEK QUIETLY

Transactions Continue At Low Level With Net Price Changes Narrow

Quiet trading marked the opening of the new week on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange. Only a few issues appeared in the sales list during the forenoon and prices were practically unchanged from the levels prevailing at the end of the week.

Blaw Knox was handled in small volume at 17¾ ex-dividend. This was equal to the previous close at 18 with the 25-cent quarterly payment deducted. The other heavy industrials remained quiet awaiting developments on the big board where early prices sagged sharply. The weakness was attributed chiefly to the taking over of three Toledo banks by the State Banking Department of Ohio.

Fuels were quiet and maintained a fairly steady tone, but trading was in small volume. Joseph Horne preferred appeared on the board for the first time this year selling at 101½ for a small lot.

NO LABORED argument, no tedious recital of facts and figures is necessary to prove that the weeding-out process has been extremely drastic.

We need only glance at the abnormally low prices today ruling for every basic commodity, to the extraordinary decline in production and consumption, to the phenomenal cheapness and super-abundance of money in the nation's financial centers, to the abject timidity exhibited by buyers all along the line, to the almost unprecedented amount of unemployment, to the virtual disappearance of speculation [illegible] in stocks, real estate, raw materials, everything.

That this forward and upward movement will come is as certain as the rising of the sun and the recurrence of the seasons.

THE TIME ELEMENT always is an uncertain factor. It is so—at least in my humble opinion—now.

One trader writes seeking to convince me that we are bound to have [illegible] more lean years. Bosh!

This country has experienced major panics and depressions which left it barren of available capital, mountains of frozen inventories, [illegible] savings, slashed wage scales, [illegible] debts abroad, specie at a premium and clearing house certificates as substitutes for currency.

WHAT A CONTRAST then and now!

The world owes us billions. Our savings deposits total an unparalleled sum. Capital and credit are plentiful. Wage scales are high, not low. We have a favorable foreign trade balance. Of mountainous inventories there are none. Half our railroads are not operating under receiverships. Few of our business corporations are over their heads in debt to banks. We suffer from no devastating crop failures; rather have we an embarrassment of agricultural products. Our industrial facilities are efficient beyond anything known during earlier panics.

HEAVENS! If we are able—and we were—to stage a comeback after every other panic, although we were then relatively poor and infinitely worse crippled, have we become so impotent that we can not hope to raise ourselves from the slough of despond with all that we have at our command today?

Large Losses Reported by Oil Companies

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

THE EFFECT OF OVERPRODUCTION on the oil industry has been shown in drastic losses reported by a large share of the principal companies in the first half of the present year.

Out of nine major companies, which recently reported earnings, only three came through the first six months of 1931 with a profit. In the corresponding period of last year all but one of these companies ended their income accounts in black figures.

This has resulted in a wave of dividend reductions and omissions. Strange to say, the oil industry has not felt a serious decline in the demand for its products as a result of the depression. Its business measured in gallons of gasoline and similar units of other products has held its own.

But the burden of excessive production has resulted in lower crude oil prices. It has been responsible for the unnecessary expansion of refining facilities as individual companies have attempted to find means to dispose of their oil. It has been the direct cause of the overdevelopment of distributing facilities, for declining prices and for sporadic price wars.

Atlantic Shows Loss

THE STATEMENT OF THE Atlantic Refining Company is quite typical of the results for the entire industry. In the first half of 1930 this company earned $2,818,823, which was equivalent to $1.04 a share on the common stock. In the first six months of this year a loss of $4,012,962 was reported after all charges. Included in the deductions from this year's income account was an inventory loss of $2,940,094. Atlantic also made liberal allowances of $4,742,068 for depreciation and of $843,968 for depletion.

Results Compared

A COMPARISON OF THE NET profits or losses of the nine companies indicates the full extent of the blow given to the oil trade this year. The following table shows the net figures and the earnings per share for the nine companies after all charges for the first six months of 1931 and 1930:

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 17 (AP).—Cotton opened barely steady today, 15 to 17 points lower, with active months showing net losses of 18 to 19 points during the early trading, in response to lower Liverpool cables.

Liverpool and the continent were both credited with selling here, while there was some commission house selling, presumably in liquidation of contracts bought on the rallies of late last week. October declined to 6.97c and March to 7.49c under the early pressure, but offerings were not heavy and the market became quiet after they had been absorbed, with the tone steadier at the end of the first half hour on covering.

Slight rallies from the early decline met some increase of offerings and trading was quiet later in the morning, with prices working off to new low levels for the day. October sold down to 6.92c and March to 7.43c, making net declines of 23 to 25 points, and the market was within 2 or 3 points of the lowest at midday, with the tone barely steady.

LONDON, Aug. 17 (AP).—Bar silver 12⅝d per ounce. Money 3½ per cent. Discount rates: Short bills, 4½@4⅝ per cent; three months, 4½@4⅝ per cent.

Woolworth Chief Says European Trade Better

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—Returning from a two months' trip to Europe, Hubert P. Parson, president of F. W. Woolworth Company, said he found business conditions abroad, especially in France, showed some improvement. Commenting on the business of the parent company in the United States, he said that at the close of July the company's sales were less than half of 1 per cent behind last year, "and with a fair August we should be able to overcome this by the close of the month."

GRAIN PRICES SHOWSTRENGTH

CHICAGO, Aug. 17 (AP).—Grain prices here tended upward early today, influenced by Liverpool wheat quotations higher than expected. Wet weather in Europe was a bullish factor, and possible discontinuance of food rationing in Russia continued to receive notice.

Opening ⅛-¾ cents up, wheat later held near the initial figures. Corn started at ½ decline to ⅛ advance and afterward became firmer.

Canceling of price upturns in cereals followed stock market unsettlement and word that the militia had been ordered in readiness in Toledo in connection with bank failures. A substantial increase of the amount of wheat on ocean passage counted also as a handicap to bulls. Increased weakness of September corn acted as a persistent drag on other deliveries of corn and on wheat and oats as well.

Stock Exchange Topics

Much of Past Week's Buying Attributed To Shorts

If as generally believed much of the buying on last week's rise came from shorts those operators must have been of the shoe-string variety who take fright at the slightest recovery in the market. The really important professional bear operators as a rule do not work that way. There was absolutely nothing bullish in the news last week to scare even the most timid short. An experienced operator on the bear side knows very well what he is about and he is not frightened at shadows.

The bank closings in Toledo may have caused some of the selling in the New York Stock Market this morning, but it must be admitted that the effect was purely psychological. It had been known for several weeks that the three banks were in trouble and that little short of a miracle could save them. The news did not come as a great surprise to the more important interests in the Street. The actual damage of the bank failures is entirely local, but, of course, speculative sentiment is certain to be influenced for a time. The weak spots in the nation's banking system have been giving way one by one for a year or more. There is this satisfaction, however, that every weak link that breaks makes the chain that much stronger.

Earnings of Northern Pacific this year are likely to be negligible on the stock. Because of this fact, considerable talk is heard of a downward revision in the current $5 a share annual dividend rate. However, in some quarters the point is made that because of the strong financial position the directors could continue the distribution for the remainder of the current year, particularly if it became evident that 1932 would show improvement in the domestic railroad situation. There has been nothing official on the matter.

There was a substantial short interest in American Can before last week's rally and while considerable covering was reported, many of the important bear traders have maintained their position. The fact that tin plate production has been coming down steadily in the past three weeks has been responsible for much of the supply in Can. Another reduction in tin plate output further emphasized the reduced activities of the can makers and gave confidence to the traders who had maintained their short position during the upturn.

So far the advance has attracted little outside buying to the stock market, according to brokers. Some short-covering has been forced, of course, but the main buying power is coming from strong interests sponsoring the rise. Rather than viewing the absence of any substantial outside buying at this time as an obstacle to a further extension of the recovery movement, some observers take the stand that public apathy toward the market is favorable at this time, arguing that a weak, non-professional interest in the market would be a hindrance. Moreover if there is any sizeable accumulation going on for a fall advance, as some people profess to believe, it may be assumed that no effort will be made to stimulate outside interest in the mrakel at this stage.

Wide skepticism concerning the market's ability to carry on an advance at this time, when signs of any definite change in fundamental conditions have been few, greeted the first upturn of the market early last week after the prolonged period of inactivity and sagging prices. Some of the skeptics since have changed their views and are inclined to follow along in the belief that an intermediary upswing of fair-sized proportions may be seen in anticipation of fall improvement in business. The market generates bullishness as it goes. That may be seen in the growing conviction that an upswing is in progress as expressed in brokers' letters. After advising caution in following the advances early in the week, a good many switched over to the bull side to the extent of advising moderate purchases, particularly in the event of a reaction.

In Memoriam 1-B

In loving memory of our beloved husband and father, LESLIE R. RODGERS, who died August 17, 1930.

We saw you fading like a flower,
But could not make you stay;
We nursed you with tender kindness
Until God called you away.
Oh, Father dear, we loved you
And our hearts ache for you still;
Forgotten by some others,
But by us you never will.

Beyond this vale of wrath and tears
Looms but the horror of the shade,
And yet the menace of the years

In loving memory of Matilda Martha [illegible] (nee Hoffman), who was called to rest August 17, 1930. Her unselfish devotion and goodness continues in the memory of Husband, Son and Daughter.

Fanchon's Airplane Meets Storm and Crashes

CHAPTER IV

"Poor Fanchon!" Evelyn said softly, still jumping at conclusions. But she wasn't sorry for her. Envious if anything. No romance had come into her own life as yet. And with the envy came also the smug virtue reaction of the girl who has never been tempted.

"He wanted me to marry him," said Fanchon, "when he had 'made his pile.' That was what he said. He wanted to give me everything, he told me. I didn't meet his people. He said I wouldn't understand them. They were old fashioned. They were not at all American in spirit or manner of living."

Synopsis

While the newsboys shouted, "All about the big gang killing," Fanchon Meredith and a man named Tony planned their getaway. Tony gave Fanchon $4,000 and reserves passage for her under the name of "Miss Smith" on an airplane chartered by the wealthy Mr. Eames en route to New York. A fellow-passenger whom she previously had met on the boat coming from Hawaii, recognizes Fanchon. She is Evelyn Howard. Evelyn is going to live with the wealthy Mrs. Allison Carstairs, an aunt whom she has never seen. Fanchon envies Evelyn flying to happiness, while she is trying to escape because she was Tony's girl—Tony, who lied his way through life and whom she had innocently accepted on face value. Fanchon confides in Evelyn about her love for Tony.

Now Go On

"I suppose," said Evelyn primly, "he made love to you." Her eyes shone.

"Yes," answered Fanchon. She said it dreamily. She forgot everything for a swift moment of remembering rapture.

"Well?" said Evelyn.

Fanchon looked up. Fanchon raised her hand swiftly. "Oh, not that, not that!" cried Fanchon, flushing, paling again to that glorious golden tint.

"No, not that." Antonio Francesconi had known a good girl when he met one. So had Rosie. Rose, who had been Tony's girl, and not so good before Fanchon with her golden skin and turquoise eyes and blue-black hair had smiled across a library desk into Tony's dark, smouldering, dazzled eyes—

"There isn't much more to tell," Fanchon went on swiftly, "remember I had no one to warn me. No friends. And very little knowledge of the world, especially of Tony's world. The world of the racketeer."

"Racketeer . . ." gasped Evelyn.

IMPLICATED IN MURDER

"Yes. He—he is a gunman," said Fanchon slowly. "I only learned that . . . a little while ago. And there was a dope ring. Oh, I don't understand it. I never shall! But there was a . . . a murder lately. He's implicated. I was seen with him the night it happened, a few hours before. They . . ."

"You," said Evelyn, staring, "you are the . . . the mystery woman . . . in the papers. I read about it."

"Yes, I believe," said Fanchon, smiling wearily, "that if you wanted to report me to the police they would be very grateful to you. They want to find me and question me. They . . . they haven't much idea who I am. Tony gave me money to get away. He found out somehow about this small airplane company and the plane Mr. Eames had chartered and the failure of the booked passengers to take the trip. He said the railroads, the air ports and the boats would be watched. He booked the passage for me under the name of Smith. I spent the night before the flight in a little hotel in Oakland . . ."

"I heard them call you Smith," remembered Evelyn slowly, "when we started. I thought it was just a mistake."

"I know. Well, of course when I saw you I was terrified. But I'm glad now . . . I . . . I had to tell somebody. Ask for help. I must get work in the East. I don't care what it is. I'd go into domestic service if it were safer than anything else. I want to bury myself somewhere. I must!"

"And this Tony?" asked Evelyn, with distaste.

EVELYN HARDENS

"I don't know. He says he'll get away. Hide. Lie low for a time. And then come East and find me. I am to watch the personal columns in the papers. I don't want him to find me," said Fanchon.

"You don't care for him any more?" asked Evelyn.

"I don't know. I cared for the man I thought he was. But this is a different man. When I think of what his life must have been. There may be," said Fanchon and shuddered, "there may be blood on his hands. I don't want to see him again. Not ever. I'll pay back the money he gave me, some day, somehow. I must. But—I don't want to see him again," she repeated.

Evelyn was silent. Her face had hardened a little. She looked at Fanchon as from a great distance. She was remote, aloof, very superior. Fanchon looked at her and her heart turned over. This pleasant, rather silly girl had suddenly become her judge.

"You believe me, don't you?" she pleaded, "that I knew nothing of his way of life. That my relations with him were perfectly clean."

"Of course I believe you," Evelyn replied, but without conviction. Fanchon did not notice the lack. She was too intent. She went on still impulsively.

"If you would speak to your aunt . . . ask her to help me, without telling her the story . . . ask her to help me find work."

"I'm afraid I couldn't," Evelyn said rising. She looked down on Fanchon, literally and figuratively. "I'm sorry, but I couldn't. You see . . . well, she couldn't very well afford to be mixed up in an affair of this sort if it were ever known. I'm awfully sorry, Fanchon," went on Evelyn, "but I'm sure you understand. I will keep your confidence," she added with conscious kindness, "you mustn't worry about that. And I'm sure you'll find work. Modelling perhaps. Or the stage, I guess," she added. "I'll go to bed now. It seems to be cooler."

BACK AGAINST WALL

It was much cooler. In more ways than one.

"Well," said Fanchon, "I don't blame you. I understand. Of course you and Mrs. Carstairs couldn't afford to soil your hands . . . Gangster's girl," she added bitterly.

When Evelyn had left, murmuring conventionalities, Fanchon lay still and thought painfully, what a fool I've been. To tell her! Of all people! But she won't tell. She's too ashamed to think that she even knows me, thought Fanchon. Well, that's that. Help? You can't expect it from people, she warned herself, you've only yourself now, with your back against the wall.

They made a very early start then next morning. The new plane, a replica of the first, tuned up and overhauled, was waiting. They took off into a cloudless sky, but the day, even just after sunrise, was very warm and oppressive. Evelyn's attitude toward Fanchon was, in a sense, amusing. Even Fanchon had to admit that. She spoke to her as little as possible and then condescendingly.

PLANE CRASHES

"A thunderstorm!" remarked Mrs. Eames nervously.

But she had a right to be nervous. Heavier than air craft is hard put to it to exist in a thunderstorm. The air currents developing before and during a storm are markedly dangerous. A squall wind was rising and soon the heavy rain would fall.

There were two courses open to this pilot or any pilot. He might run for it and make a forced landing, or he might try to fly above and around it. The former course did not appear feasible because of the nature of the land over which they were passing. He decided, therefore, on the latter. But his mechanic cried out suddenly and pointed to the gas gauge. There was a leak somewhere.

Nothing to it but the forced landing. The passengers were informed, asked to stand by. They lost altitude rapidly. Evelyn forgetting her purse, which Fanchon held mechanically, began to cry quietly. Mrs. Eames was perfectly white and still. Eames was swearing in an idle fashion, the son was trying to reassure his mother and the others.

Swift, downward swoop . . . rain coming in sheets . . . a flash that lit up the entire countryside . . . darkness . . . a sensation of smothering . . . a woman's mad, frantic scream . . . a terrific crash . . . Darkness.

DAILY SHORT STORY

'The Name Is Rittlemoose'

Heiress' Guardian Attempts To Stop Elopement

Mrs. Hackley telephoned down from Maple Ridge to her sister, Mrs. Rittlemoose, who lived in East Saugus.

"Is she at home?" Mrs. Hackley asked, putting a world of emphasis on the pronoun.

"No—why?"

"I seen her with him."

"Where?"

"Are you sure, Betsey?"

Mrs. Hackley assured Mrs. Rittlemoose that she was quite sure that she was sure.

"She must of run all the way; she was here not an hour ago. Much obliged, Betsey."

"You goin' to let her sneak away and get married?"

Mrs. Hackley seemed to be quite concerned.

"You know darn well I ain't. Do you think I'm a fool?" Mrs. Rittlemoose demanded of her sister.

"Nobody ever got the best of me yet, Betsey. I'm goin' to . . ."

There was a suspicious rattle over the wire, this being on a three-party line. Mrs. Rittlemoose stopped in the midst of her sentence and listened.

"You hear that?"

"Uh huh."

The telephone conversation ceased.

Mrs. Hackley was employed at the Vanderton summer place up on Maple Ridge. Little went on in her vicinity that she didn't hear or see. The moment she saw Estella Parkman down at the miniature golf course at the Wayside Lunch four corners she telephoned her sister.

NOT A RELATIVE

Estelle had lived with Mrs. Rittlemoose since she was 10. Eight and a half years living with Mrs. Rittlemoose would, in the opinion of all who knew the widow, be something like a calamity. However, Mrs. Rittlemoose knew which side her bread was buttered on, to use her own words, and she had made things fairly pleasant for Estelle.

One could not, by any stretch of the imagination, say that Estelle Parkman was related to Mrs. Rittlemoose. Mrs. Rittlemoose's first husband had been a brother to Estelle's stepfather.

However, Mrs. Rittlemoose was, at that distance, the nearest in relationship to Estelle, and when Estelle was left an orphan the courts gave the girl into the care of Mrs. Rittlemoose, which pleased that penny-squeezing lady almost beyond words, since she received three thousand a year from Estelle's fortune.

Estelle, being pretty, intelligent and of excellent character and sunny disposition, was not without admirers. Most of these admirers were residents of East Saugus and its environs and they knew all about Estelle's legacy of some hundred and fifty thousand.

BECOMES INFATUATED

Mrs. Rittlemoose had told Estelle some thousands of times that matrimony was a snare and a delusion, worse, it was slavery and unhappiness and something to be avoided. She went into details concerning the worst features of her three departed husbands, one by way of not knowing toadstools from mushrooms and the others by way of trains into the far unknown.

Estelle did not argue, but she had her own ideas and could draw conclusions with surprising accuracy. She could also guess the truth—that when she was married Mrs. Rittlemoose would cease drawing the three thousand a year.

And then along came Hubert Moorefield. He came from the city and he bought one of the bungalows up on Maple Ridge. In East Saugus he saw Estelle. Estelle saw him. They smiled and the next day Moorefield secured an introduction.

Estelle became infatuated.

Moorefield didn't know this, but he hoped that it would happen, for he was deeply and sincerely in love for the first time in his 26 years.

"He's lots of fun, awfully jolly and he's going to teach me to play golf; we're sort of starting in on the miniature links." Estelle said with a degree of sincerity that at first deceived Mrs. Rittlemoose.

"I suppose," she said, "that he's just another fool man who is after your money."

"He doesn't know that I have any," Estelle defended.

"Humph—all men are liars and crooks and worse. Of course he knows and he's trying to be smart and pretend he don't know and if he should marry you he'd get your money away from you and desert you or beat you or something; all men are alike, now there was my second husband, Hilary . . ."

"Yes," Estelle said, "you told me about him."

Mrs. Rittlemoose had a little car. She had had it for nine years. The car still functioned. She drove up on Maple Ridge and made inquiries as to which bungalow in the summer colony this city chap, Mr. Moorefield, had bought.

She drove into the yard and looked about.

Mrs. Rittlemoose's sharp eyes saw a tennis racket and saw on the handle the large initials, "H. M."

"My name, young man," she said, "is Rittlemoose."

"Rittlemoose—I said that my name was Rittlemoose."

"I'm sorry, you embarrass me, but all I can get out of what you say is 'Rittlemoose.'"

"That's my name, young man, Rittlemoose."

"Why complain to me about it, madam? One can always have a name changed by applying to the courts."

"Changed? Change my name? Why should I want to change my name?" Mrs. Rittlemoose demanded.

"Don't try any of your sarcastic city ways with me. Your name is Moorefield, isn't it? Hubert Moorefield."

"Is it?"

"I am Estelle's aunt, in a sort of way!"

Mrs. Rittlemoose leaned back to see how this would shock him.

"In what sort of way?" he asked, mildly.

OBJECTS TO MARRIAGE

"By marriage, if you must know—"

"Well, that is one way, I assure you, madam."

"You don't deny that you know Estelle?"

"Rittlemoose! Numbskull."

"Ah, pardon me, will you be seated, Mrs. Rittlemoose?"

She sat down while he remained standing.

"How about the second place, Madam?"

"She's a poor girl and she has fits and she isn't the sort you should marry. I'd have to live with her, and I'd like to know more about you—do you drink?"

"Oh, yes," he said, cheerfully.

"Oh, you do, do you?"

"I do. I have been drinking since birth and expect to drink until death—it's on account of my thirst. Tea, coffee, iced water and now and then lemonade—nothing stronger."

"No, Mrs. Jittlehoos—er—No, Madam."

"You're just trying to be funny; if you marry my Estelle I'll take that idiotic nonsense out of you. You'll be sorry if you don't keep away from Estelle. I warn you."

"I see, you warn me."

"She hasn't a cent to her name. You've probably heard she had a hundred and fifty thousand, but it ain't true."

"Dollars!"

"Did you give them to her?"

"She ain't got 'em, I tell you."

"Did you take them away from her?"

"She's a poor girl."

"Did she tell you that I was going to marry her?"

"No, but I got eyes and ears!"

"Look, I can wiggle my ears, can you wiggle your ears, Mrs. Snifflehose?"

"I want you to promise to keep away from my Estelle and I don't want to be insulted and I don't intend to be—"

"Or not to be, that is the question."

"I believe you're crazy, Hubert Moorefield!"

"Are you sure I am Hubert Moorefield?"

"You admitted them was your initials; do you think I'm a fool?"

"I think you are one of the most—er—unusual women I have ever had walk into my garden uninvited."

"I came to protect Estelle. Look here, Mr. Moorefield, I want to know if you intend to marry Estelle in spite of all my kindness in warning you?"

"No, Madame, I do not intend to marry Estelle."

Mrs. Rittlemoose paused and glared at him suspiciously.

"Twin brother—wife? What—how—"

HUBERT'S TWIN BROTHER

"Take it easy, Mrs. Dimmellous—er—Mrs.—er, take it easy, Madam. My brother, Hubert Moorefield, has gone to the city with Miss Estelle Parkman. They have been gone four hours, so they are by this time married—"

"Twin brother? Hubert? Then who are you?"

"My name is Harold."

"You—you contemptible thing—you have been talking idiotic this way just to keep me here until they were married."

"Yes, Mrs.—er—Madam."

"Can your brother support her?"

"He is worth several million!"

"He is? Where can I find them? When will they be back here?"

"I—I apologize, Mr. Moorefield."

"Not at all, Mrs. Sittletoose—er—"

"The name is Rittlemoose!"

Delay at the Airport

Playing Politics Is Unseemly in the Construction of the County's Aviation Field.

To give jobs to as many unemployed persons as possible pick and shovel men were used instead of steam shovels in some of the construction work at Allegheny County's $3,500,000 airport. That delayed its completion somewhat, but was justified.

If it is true, however, as rumored, that laborers employed at the airport are not required to work as hard as they would if engaged on private instead of public work, there is no excuse for the delay thus caused.

Furthermore, if political influence is necessary to obtain one of these jobs, it is no wonder that efficiency of the highest order has not been in evidence.

Operators of aviation lines assert that, although the airport is to be opened officially on September 12, it will not be extensively used for some time because of what they regard as unreasonable requirements in regard to hangars. They complain of "too much politics."

Political Posters

The Candidates Are Overreaching Themselves by Putting Up Placards in Objectionable Places.

Eight men were committed to the workhouse by Magistrate J. J. O'Connor of Oakland Police Court Saturday for tearing down posters of Joseph G. Armstrong's opponents in the County Commissioners' race.

But there has been little or no police activity against persons who have put up the candidates' placards in places where such advertising is clearly forbidden by ordinance—on the City-County Building and the Courthouse, for example, where bills advertising James J. Coyne's candidacy for County Commissioner were posted Friday night.

Still, even though the police do not interfere with these bill-posting activities, there is evidence that it will not help the candidates concerned but may hurt them.

Signs multiply that the people are becoming indignant over the violation of the law and the defacing of walls in the city and trees in the country and will be prejudiced against the candidates thus offending.

The Rural Road Plan

Taking Over of Township Highways by the State Will Bring Shift in the Tax Burden.

Secretary of Highways Sam Lewis predicts that the action of the Commonwealth in taking the farmers out of the mud will stop the exodus to the cities and lead to the reclaiming of abandoned farms.

The project is also likely to bring a slight shift in the tax burden. For instance, Commissioner Charles Gould, of Findlay Township, in Allegheny County, says that with the state taking over the improvement of all but a few miles of the township road he thinks it will be possible within a few years to reduce the township tax rate.

Interest in the Zoo

It is rather impressive, the interest that has been shown in the Highland Park zoo since it was disclosed that some of the lions have rickets and other animals are also suffering from the unhealthfulness and inadequacy of their quarters.

The Sun-Telegraph has received several letters proposing that the zoo be abolished to save the beasts from the discomfort of imprisonment, while Councilman John M. Phillips reports that since his return from an inspection of the Bronx zoo in New York he has been kept busy answering the letters and telephone calls of people who have suggestions to offer for the improvement of the local zoo.

Mr. Phillips says—and of course he is right—that it would be improper for the city to spend any considerable sum for the enlargement of the zoo at the present time, when so much human distress calls for relief.

But he promises that steps will be taken without delay to make the animals comfortable. That promise ought to go a long way to relieve the uneasiness of the kind-hearted people whose sympathies have been touched by the stories of the animals' suffering.

Presbyterian Gains

The Influence of the Scotch-Irish Founders of Pittsburgh Continues to Make Itself Felt.

The annual statistical review of the Presbyterian Church in the United States, issued today, will be received with satisfaction not only by Presbyterians, but also by others who are sufficiently free from denominational bias to welcome an increase in the strength of a great religious body. For the Presbyterians report a net increase of 15,023 in their communicant members and of 24,466 in their Sunday school members.

The report is of particular interest to Pittsburgh because Pittsburgh Presbytery continues to lead all the rest in size, having 69,119 communicants, as against 51,087 for the Chicago Presbytery, which stands second in the list.

Pennsylvania has the largest Presbyterian Synod, with 370,799 members. New York Synod is second, with 263,557 members.

Western Pennsylvania has three Presbyterian churches with over 2,000 members each—the First Presbyterian Church of Pittsburgh, with 2,502; the First of Wilkinsburg, with 2,040, and the Third of Uniontown, with 2,257.

5—Town Hall seating at least 15,000
6—Voting machines to insure honest elections

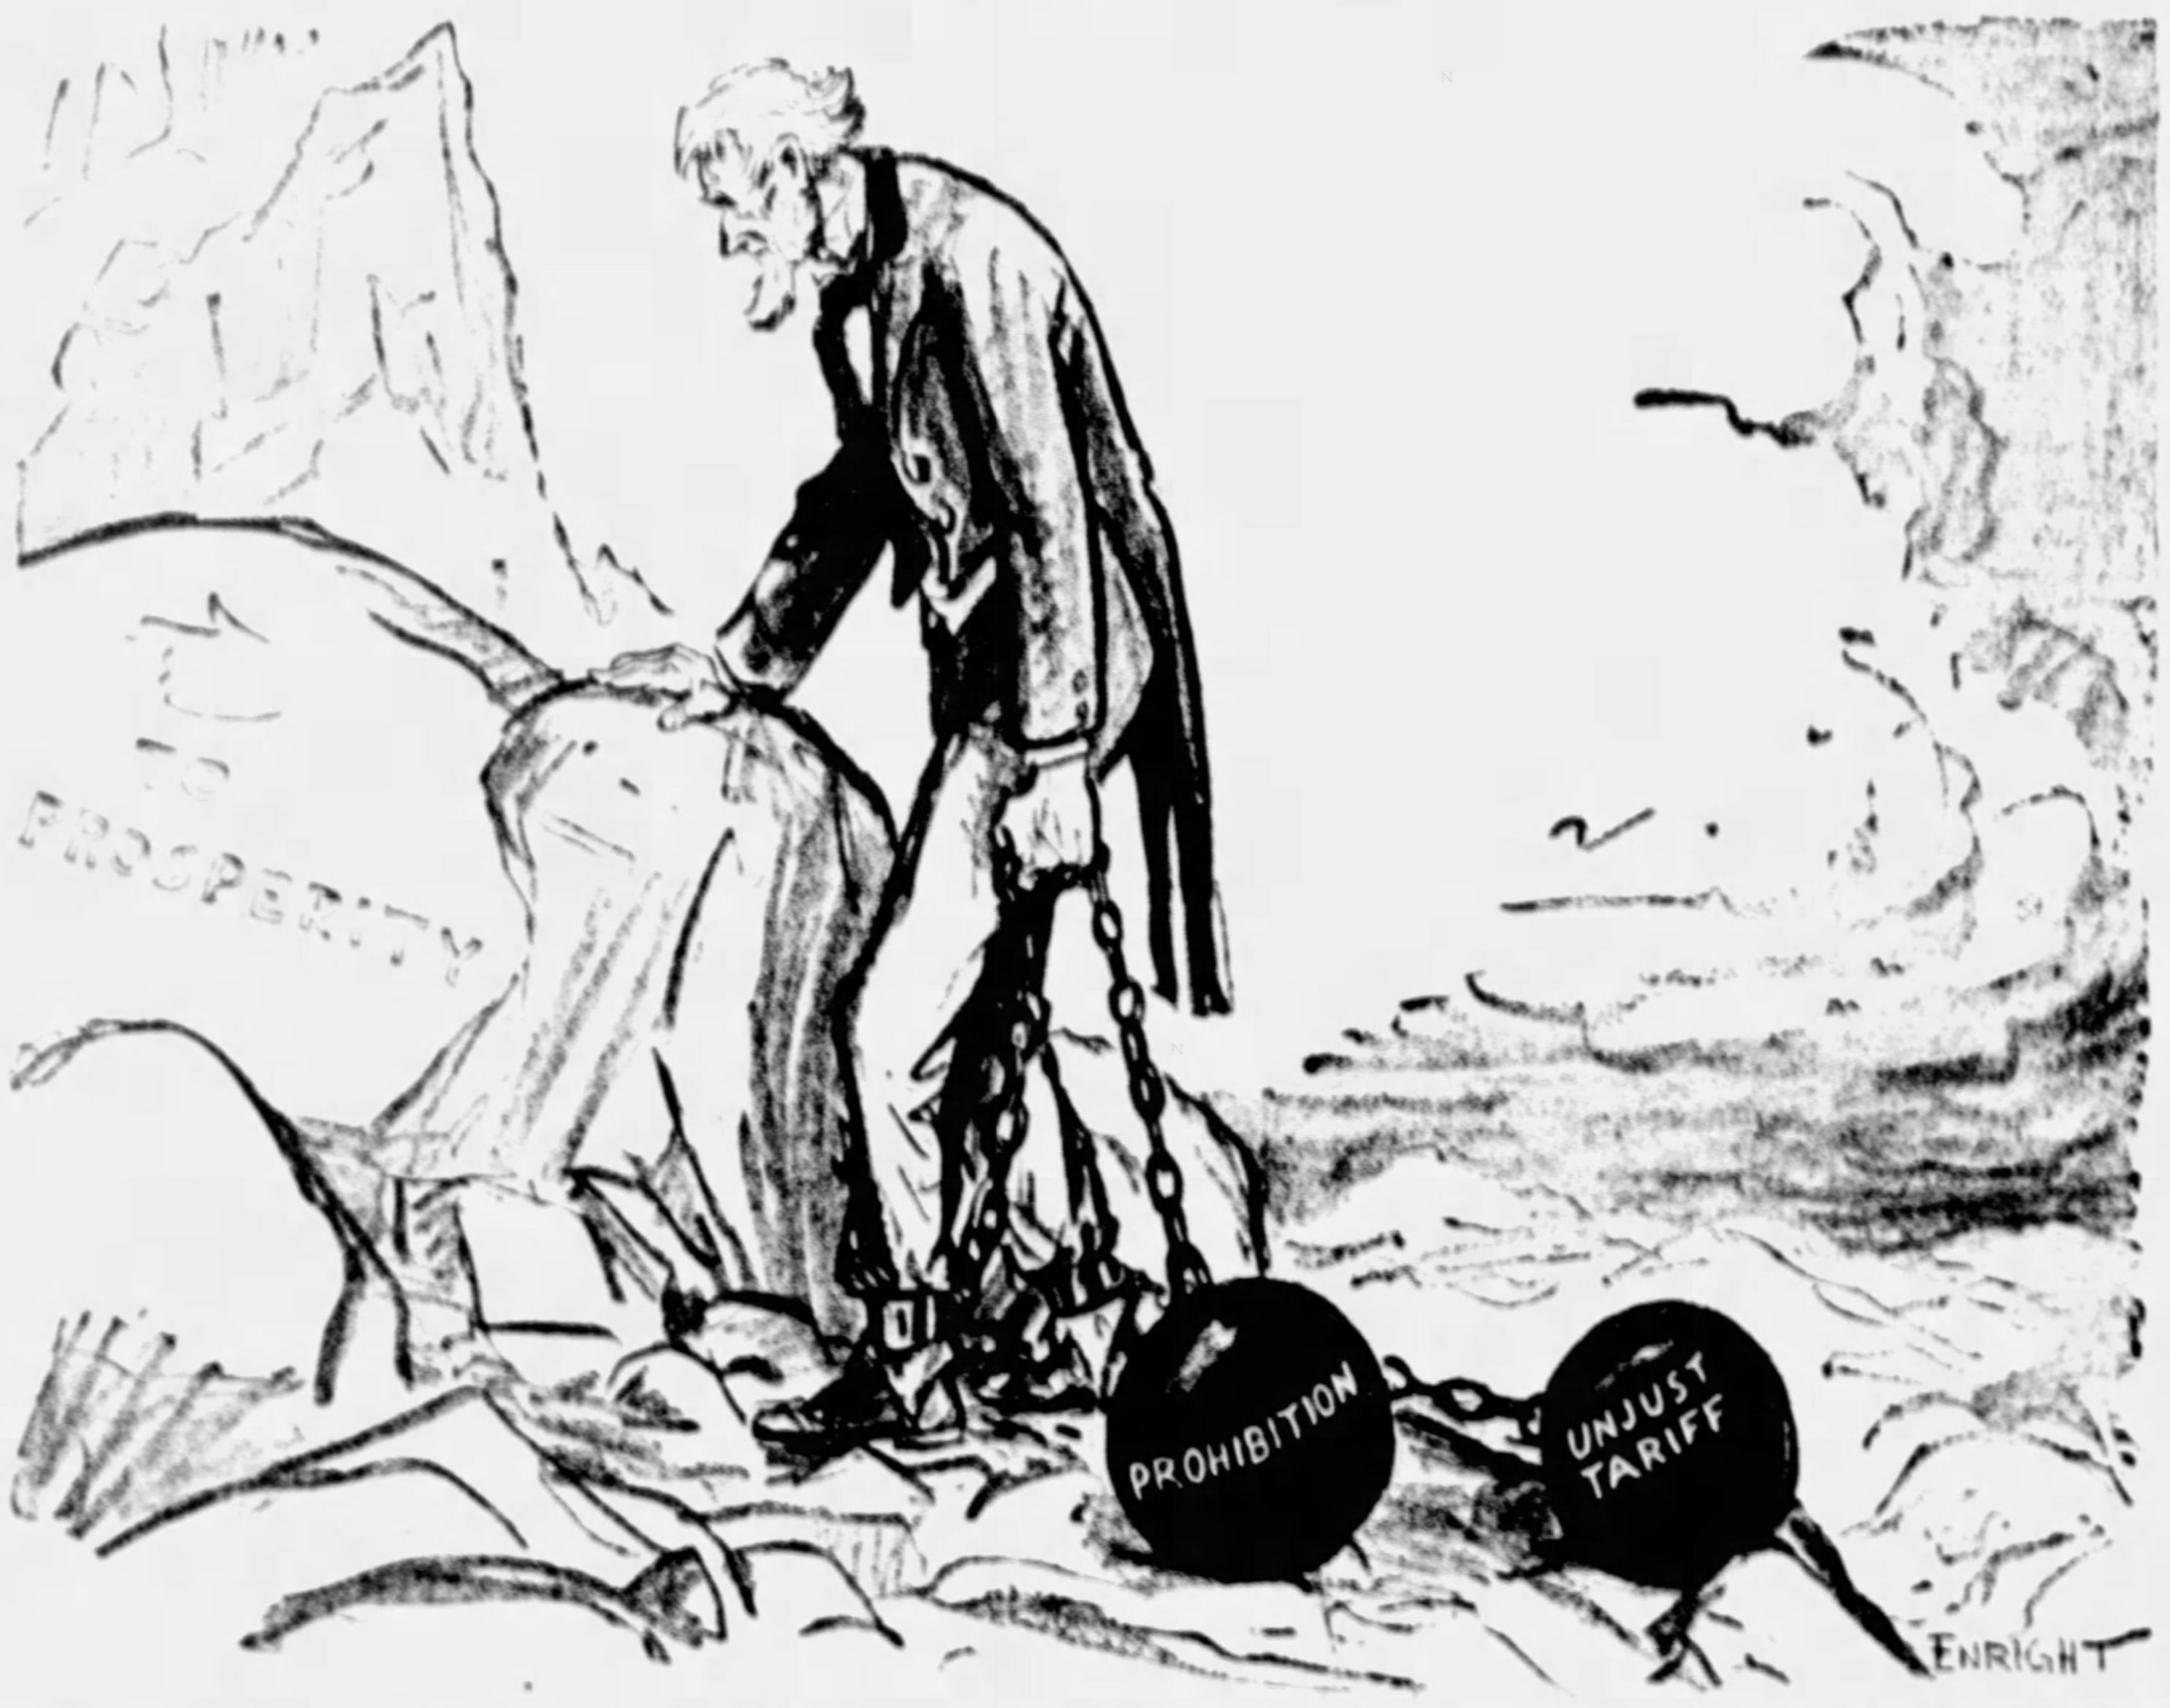
9—Electrification of railroads

Heavy Handicaps

(Copyright, 1931.)



A tired, worn, worried Uncle, unjustly shackled with abominable Prohibition and the iniquitous Hawley-Smoot-Grundy tariff, strives with his might to come out of the Vale of Depression.

Longingly he eyes the Path of Plenty that leads to Prosperity.

But unless relieved of the ball and chain he will find the path steep, the going hard, the way rough.

Revision of the tariff act would check the retaliatory tactics of other nations against us, open foreign markets to American products, put our factories on FULL TIME and give JOBS to many of the JOBLESS.

Revision of the dry laws to make legal the sale of wholesome light wine and beer would enrich Uncle's Treasury with excise taxes, stop the flood of poisonous bootleg that inundates the country, check the growing intemperate use of hard liquor, and, by opening the breweries, provide an outlet for the surplus grain of the farmer and provide JOBS for 1,250,000 unemployed.

You would be worried, too, Dear Reader, if you were in Uncle's shoes.

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

The Love-Addict

Don't marry a love-addict. The world seems to be full of them today. Love-addicts, like dope-fiends and drink-addicts, can never be cured.

* * *

A man who can never resist the "come hither" glint in any woman's eye, will limp down to the grave in pursuit of some new adventure or some new woman. Rheumatism cannot halt him in the love-chase; and the harder his arteries the softer his heart and head.

The masculine love-addict can never become a one-woman man; he is not even a one-woman-at-a-time man. He puts the new glove on, right over the old, and mixes his women and his emotions as he would never think of mixing his drinks.

* * *

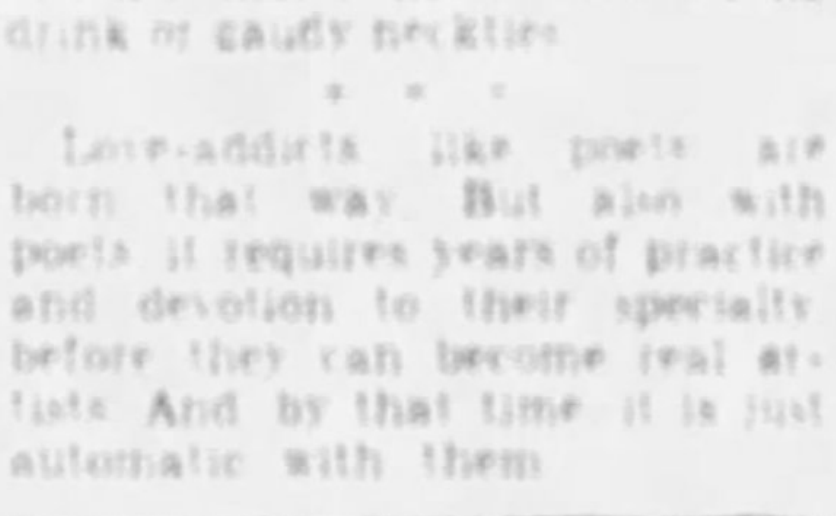
He may love only one woman in the world or love one woman better than all the others in the world—but the invitation in another woman's eye, like the sound of the bugle to an old war-horse, will always stir him to prompt response and make him restless.

* * *

Even though you may manage to keep his material body in the house, his astral body and his thoughts will be constantly wandering afar, in search of adventure, romance and novelty. He can't help it. It's just a weakness in his nature, like the weakness in another man's nature for strong drink or gaudy neckties.

* * *

Love-addicts, like poets, are born that way. But also with poets it requires years of practice and devotion to their specialty before they can become real artists. And by that time it is just automatic with them.



The woman love-addict craves only conquest and she cannot resist vamping every male she meets—from her husband's best friend to the grocery boy and the iceman.

* * *

She begins in her cradle by vamping her own grandfather, and never stops until she has to put on bifocals to see a man approaching.

* * *

All this may be very exciting and intriguing in a sweetheart. It keeps you on the qui vive before marriage, and puts a lot of pep into the courtship. Uncertainty adds zest to the chase and makes the capture more triumphant.

* * *

But after marriage, it wears out your nerves, wears down your pride and your self-esteem, utterly wrecks your vanity and fills you with suspicion and an inferiority complex.

* * *

What marriage should bring is peace of mind and tranquility of heart—not loss of your pride, your beauty sleep and all your illusions about yourself.

ENGLAND DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

LONDON, Aug. 17.—London's squalor sinks to lowest depths in the neighborhood of Limehouse and Pennyfields and the vicious warren of streets around West India Dock road where bowsprits stare into windows and windows into ships. I made a visit last night with a man from Scotland Yard.

En passant, there is nothing of the flat-footed, derbied detective with the jutting jaw about plainclothesmen from the Yard. This one, named Cyril, was a smooth voiced gentleman of quiet elegance—the sort one felt could back out of a yard with dignity.

We took a train from Fenchurch street and ploughed jerkily through bleak unfriendly pale lit places to Blackwall Station. The coach was filled with a before midnight crowd of dock workers, ship-chandlers and stewards who eyed us sullenly. I rather wished I had neglected the cane.

Stepping from the grime of the station one is refreshed by a brisk scour of breeze from the water and sight of amazing leviathans, flung up like cliffs, in the miracle of berthing and extrication. All about are seamen's hospitals and homes, almshouses, docks, scowling drink dens and food huts.

The most impressive thing about Limehouse, in contrast to whirring winches, screaming cranes and general bedlam, is the lassitude and incredible filth of the denizens. They stand drooping and uncommunicative in doorways, on sidewalks and in public houses.

We circled into one cul de sac known as "Ape Alley," wimpled with decaying shacks of one and two stories and filled with English women who have cast their lot as wives of Chinese. Along gutters stood half caste children who stopped playing to stare.

Docks are docks the world over. Always sucking a great city's human scum to their jetties. Yet nowhere does stagnation seem so complete as here. Before quitting the quarter we saw a drunken fellow hopping grotesquely into a pub. He had pawned a peg leg around the corner for a "night cap."

Hyde Park's oratory spouts livelier than ever. Right by the Marble Arch are the portable platforms that may be hired for a small fee and anyone may talk on any subject. There are no restrictions. Thus does the Crown permit discontents to "blow off steam." The King may come in for a raking, a javelin for the Prince or a jest for Queen Mary's hat. Chiefly, however, it is the battleground of creeds where enthusiasts trim God to their particular dimensions. Yet lately much Communist propaganda is spread there. And many regard this laxity as a chink in the British armor.

* * *

One of the speakers after lunch today was a violently flaming Red. He looked not unlike Trotzky save for a white cataract eye. "In five years," he prophesied, "Buckingham Palace will be a school for workingmen's children. London will be another Moscow and"—but at this I discovered with a sudden start that the other idlers had drifted away. I skipped the gutter, too.

* * *

Yet an audience means nothing to Marble Arch orators. An atheist as I passed along was working himself into an apoplectic fury—he shook his fists, stamped his feet and fairly screamed his chop-logic defiance at Christianity although he had not a single auditor.

* * *

There is something admirable about the passionate sincerity of British tea drinkers. Tea is no longer a temporary refuge from a day's shopping or a rendezvous for gossip. Tea has grown into a full meal—starting with sardines, a plate of Gruyere sandwiches, heavy muffins and winding up with an enormous fruit tart. Tea for two was once rarely more than two shillings. In smart shops today the check has an odd habit of working out at 15 and often at 20 shillings. There is no longer such a thing as tea table talk. Everybody is too busy gouging.

* * *

And a tea shop this afternoon had a honey of a name—"The Frisky Cupid." At one of the tables was the American actress, Dorothy Dickson, who with Tallulah Bankhead has perhaps enjoyed the longest popularity of any player "from the States."

* * *

There is charm up every London street, I suppose. But the majority I find a monotone in gray—cheerless and muggy. I'm getting tuned up to poo-boop-a-doop into an out loud blubber any moment. The four-letter word I'm not homesick!

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

"My country 'tis of thee,
Sweet land of liberty—
Of thee I sing!"

Nice song—huh? Love to sing it? Makes you swell with pride and gratitude to think you belong to such a swell place—yes? All right, while you're singing it, make a verse of this.

Make a verse about nearly three thousand children thrown into federal prisons . . . all of them under 18 years of age, many of them under 14, some of them 12.

Little, skinny children with small bones like birds and wide, bewildered eyes . . . make a verse about them being put into "solitary" for "discipline"——

While you're singing, think of your little 12-year-old girl being shut into such a hole—battering with her small, soft hands against the darkness—shrieking, screaming, sobbing, whimpering . . . whispering . . . until a greater darkness came, a more merciful silence. Till, opening the door next morning, they found her dead—such a tiny body stretched on that bare plank!!

Seventy pounds of naked child flesh "spread eagled" on a frame and flogged with a blacksnake by a grown man . . . flogged because a little boy or girl had "made loud popping noises with their mouth," kicked a refuse can, stolen an apple. While you're at it, make a verse about 200-pound wardens who complacently give such reasons for flogging children.

Make a particularly joyful, proud verse about lines of children marching around, around, around, around ceaselessly . . . stopping only twice a day for bread and water.

You won't make a verse? You think I'm joking? Pulling "sob-sister stuff?" I wish I were. I wish to God I were! But this is the truth. This is what is happening in your and my "sweet land of liberty" today . . . what has been happening for many years. Don't believe it? Read the recently released National (Wickersham) Commission on Law Observance and Enforcement Report. One hundred and fifty-two pages are filled with news items like that.

Well, they "violated the Eighteenth Amendment"—by delivering a booze bottle for some adult. They "violated the Mann Act" . . . fell in love (15-year-old love!), tried to elope, crossed the border . . . Didn't 15-year-old Jimmy know that if he crossed the border with 13-year-old Jenny he was making a White Slave of her? If he didn't, his Uncle Sam will "learn him," via the blacksnake and the black hole.

And then there are the vicious outlaws (aged 11 and 12) who break open a freight car to swipe some grapes . . . or snitch some stamps out of a country postoffice, so they can go to the movies. Federal prisoners—marching in lock-step with murderers and thieves!

Make a verse of that! Make a verse to drown out the sound of little girls screaming, of little boys sobbing.

Horrible? What can be done about it? Dr. Miriam Van Waters, heading the special juvenile investigation (referee of the Los Angeles Juvenile Court, expert consultant to the Harvard Law School Crime Survey) says it can be stopped if we'll take such children out of federal jurisdiction, put them under state authority.

Maybe . . . but I suspect she's an optimist. Prison walls are as high and thick in state pens as in federal ones . . . local hearts as cold, local brain as dumb as those in Washington. Something more is needed—

Didn't we go to war to save the Belgian Babies?

HOW ABOUT ASKING EUROPE TO COME OVER AND RESCUE OURS?

Wise Words

Self-respect will do to begin with, but self-abnegation is the only consummate virtue.—Round.

To be loved we should merit but little esteem; all superiority attracts awe and aversion.—Helvetius.

Text For Today

To that end that my glory may sing praise to thee, and not be silent. O Lord my God, I will give thanks unto thee for ever.—Psalms, xxx:12.

The Beautiful Lady

By Claude G. Bowers

Every now and then one hears the complaint from some progressive member of the Senate that too many statesmen are unable to withstand the influence of the "social lobby;" and some people smile in derision. Yet there has been a social lobby from the first days of the republic and it has played an important part in determining the attitude of public men.

Never perhaps has the social lobby been so influential as during the first three or five Congresses when the capital was at Philadelphia. As in the case of most social lobbies it moved around an attractive and brilliant—at least attractive—personality.

This was Mrs. Bingham, whose father was one of the outstanding business men and financiers of the time, and an associate in business of Robert Morris. She had married Bingham, one of the social leaders of Philadelphia, and the two, quite young, had spent many months, more than a year, on their honeymoon in Europe.

In England Mrs. Bingham, youthful, buoyant, and beautiful, was taken under the wing of the titled aristocracy and entered with zest into such festivities as the court then permitted. From England she went to France where she was a sensational success at Versailles, with most of the courtiers making love to her, and so it was also in Holland.

Returning to Philadelphia, the Binghams built a fine town house on the order of those in London, and he entered upon his political career—as a high flying Federalist.

Brilliant Generals, But Few Privates

Thus it was that the elegant and hospitable Bingham mansion became the social center of the Hamiltonian Federalists. These were the most brilliant, dashing and daring men in public life, then or since.

The trouble with the Federalist party was that it was an army composed too exclusively of brilliant generals, with a fine commissary department—but few privates. These men were for the most part men of substance and many of wealth and all were fond of society—none more so than Hamilton. Thus they mixed their society and politics after the fashion of the English society that moved about such personalities as the Duchess of Devonshire.

Indeed the Federalists were so very pro-English that many of their opponents honestly thought them un-American. In their group were a great number of unusually charming and entertaining women, but the lady who had the scepter was young Mrs. Bingham. She took her queenship seriously.

So seriously, indeed, that she had but scant time for her daughter, and the result of turning her over so entirely to the companionship of a French governess, who knew the world, was an elopement, a bit unsavory, and an unhappy finale.

Bingham Receptions And Parties

The Bingham receptions and parties were always brilliant, the dinners those of an epicurean and quite as elegant as anything to be seen in London. The foreign visitors of those days were much impressed and literally made the Binghams their lounging place.

Many Frenchmen of title were passing through Philadelphia in those days, for it was increasingly embarrassing for them to linger in France with the Terror. But there was one Frenchman, and he the most celebrated and brilliant of the lot, who was not invited to the Bingham table after a few times. The reason was that Talleyrand had met and become entranced with a good-looking mulatto and, not realizing our attitude, had not hesitated to stroll along Chestnut street with the lady on his arm.

But the greater part of the company that crowded the drawing room and dining room of Mr. Bingham were Federalist politicians and all the leaders.

Hamilton, desperately busy in those days as Secretary of the Treasury, and frequently forced to work at night in the stuffy little office they had given him, would almost always drop in for a few moments at the Binghams. It was enough for him to just appear, and pass through, with smiles and bows, and a few compliments to the ladies. There, at the Binghams, one saw the lions.

Of course, Jefferson and Madison were not often there. They were both considered a bit impossible. They had some strange anarchistic ideas about the rights of common men that made them in the Bingham circle not quite proper people. Certainly they were not included in the "wise and the good."

* * *

The Political Use of The Bingham Salon

But the political use of the Bingham salon was interesting. Young, bright congressmen from the country appearing in Philadelphia with ideals almost as "subversive" of "law and order" as those of Jefferson and Madison were often easy game. They were invited to the Bingham dinners and dances.

There they were courted—particularly by the ladies.

They were masters of the art of flattery. Few of the older heads could resist them, very few of the young blades. Soon these young statesmen, with democratic notions, were a little embarrassed about admitting their strange views. Just the lifting of an eyebrow was a stab. And then the expression of surprise that one so bright and charming as themselves should have such exotic ideas.

Most of these young statesmen were soon at least secretly in love with some one of the ladies. They soon began to parrot the views of the beauties; and soon they were voicing these views on the floor of Congress. It was really inspiring—the after effect of these renunciations of their "subversive doctrines" in the House.

The ladies were there to smile upon them sweetly as they spoke, and afterwards they knew they would be carried off to the Bingham house to be loaded down with adulation and flattery.

There was Robert G. Harper, a brilliant young man who went up to Philadelphia from South Carolina with democratic leanings. He was the most distinguished of the victims of the ladies' wiles. From his original views he turned to the extreme right; and Hamilton himself could not go further in contempt for the masses. He became a leader of the Federalists—because he was vain.

Burned the Candle At Both Ends

The end of Mrs. Bingham's reign came with the election of Jefferson and the removal of the capital from Philadelphia to Washington. But it would have come just at that time had there been no change in the political complexion of the government. Too long had she burned the candle at both ends.

We have been told that there is no work so exacting and innervating as that of the professional beauty and social leader. Nights turned into days—always. Mrs. Bingham weakened and sickened, and there was some indication of tuberculosis. They hurried her away to the Bermudas in the hope that the climate there would effect a cure. It was too late.

One day a boat drew up on Water street and a wan lady on a cot was carried from the boat to the Bingham mansion to linger there but a little while and die. But we know little about her—ponderous historians thinking women beneath the dignity of history.

But had she played her part in London or Paris, and no greater part, memoirs would have been written around her.
